All In Auto Hurt.

All of the occupants of the car driven by Mrs. Robert Frost of Spore were injured, with her two daughters, Margaret, 7, and Donna, 6, in serious condition in the hospital with fractured skulls and severe lacerations. Mrs. Frost suffered minor lacerations.

Japs Aid Chinese Farmers Repair Shattered Dikes

(By United Press)

SHANGHAI — Japanese troops halted their war against the Chinese today to fight the Yellow river floods.

Japanese estimated that 150,000 Chinese civilians had been drowned. Many thousands of their own men were trapped, and the flood was only beginning.

The muddy waters poured through dyke breaks that at some points were miles long, and steadily becoming longer. Over miles of territory, the Japanese troops, all thought of their drive for Hankow forgotten, worked night and day side by side with sweating Chinese farmers, trying to patch up the dykes.

But even the Japanese admitted that their work seemed useless. The current of the river was becoming stronger each hour, fed by rains which had been falling steadily for weeks in the far west.

Chinese army units, fighting as guerrillas in independent detachments, saw the river now as an ally. The guerrilla units harassed the Japanese who were working on the dykes, and gave them no rest. Day and night, they crept up to attack isolated parties.

WPA to Put 100 to Work On Water Job

Part of Materials Arrive, Woodland Project Will Begin Next Week.

With the arrival in Mansfield of part of the materials to be used on the job, the $75,000 Woodland water improvement is expected to be started next week.

About 100 men will be assigned to the project to begin trenching for the water main on Cook road. Another 100 will be put to work later when additional pipe, purchased by the city last week, arrives.

In all the project is designed to provide work for 200 men for four months.

Materials used at the start of the job are those supplied by the federal govenment as a part of its contribution in addition to all the labor.

Street Jobs Start, Too.

Glenn Weller, city-WPA engineer, said today that the job schedule on four city street projects, totaling $25,000, was filed with the district WPA office in Columbus yesterday and that work on those projects also would be started next week.

The streets jobs, largest of which is the construction of curbs and gutter on Lawnview avenue from Maple street to Overlook road, and on Overlook road from Lawnview to Fairlawn, call for the expenditure of $11,000. The city's share is $3,500, with WPA furnishing $6,500.

Another project in which the city will spend $6,000 in addition to $2,500 in federal funds, includes 3,000 feet of trenching and the construction of 10 manholes for expanding the fire and police underground signal system on North Mulberry street and West Fifth street.

On Park avenue west between North Mulberry and Main street the city will spend $1,000 with an equal amount in federal funds for the removal of the old car rails and relaying the brick.

On Heineman boulevard, the grass plot will be removed from the center of the street between Helen and Rowland avenue and the street paved at the cost of $1,750, with the city's share set at $750.

FACE SCRUTINY

Petitions of One Candidate in Primary Questioned.

One of the seven candidates for congress in the 17th district may be disqualified by the Richland county board of elections which meets this afternoon to certify primary petitions, George C. Balliet, president of the election board, indicated today.

Although Balliet would not reveal the name of the candidate, he said a number of illegal signatures had been found on one of the petitions, which probably would automatically eliminate the candidate.

Four Democrats and three Republicans filed for the congressional nomination in the district, which includes Richland county. The Democratic candidates are William Ashbrook, incumbent; Ben West, Mt. Vernon; Frank Cave, Springfield township; and Lee Purdy, Coshocton county. Republicans are Philip Wolfe, Mansfield; Col. Oliver Dockery, Newark, and Walter B. Woodward, Bellville.

Wreck of Plane in Which Dirlams Died

Here is the wreckage of the TWA liner which crashed on Buena Vista peak in the Sierra Nevada mountains, carrying to their death J. Tracy Dirlam, 22, Mansfield, and his sister, Mary Lou, 19, as well as seven other persons. The wrecked plane was found late Sunday by a lone searcher, H. O. Collier, 23, of Fresno, Calif., who was playing a "hunch." As the picture shows, the plane did not burn in crashing, although it sheared off trees on the rugged mountainside on which it smashed to bits.

Starts Home With Ashes Of Plane Victims Friday

Mother of Mansfielders to Bring Remains Here for Interment; Bodies Cremated at Fresno Today.

The ashes of J. Tracy Dirlam and his sister, Mary Lou, will start their homeward trip to Mansfield Friday.

Victims of the tragic TWA airliner's crash in the Sierra Nevada mountains last March 1, which killed nine persons, their bodies—brought down from the rugged slope of Buena Vista peak yesterday afternoon—were cremated this morning at services held in Fresno, Cal.

Attending the services were Mrs. Rachel Dirlam, their mother; Sally Dirlam, 13, a sister, Rufus Tracy, jr., of Salt Lake City, an uncle, who were in Fresno yesterday to meet the caravan which brought the bodies of the nine victims to the lowlands.

In a telegram to her father, Rufus A. Tracy, sr., Park avenue west, Mrs. Dirlam said cremation of the bodies was necessary, and that services would be held there this morning.

She added that she and her daughter would leave Fresno Friday with the ashes of her children, and would arrive here Monday. No funeral arrangements have been made.

Bodies of the six passengers and three members of the crew arrived in Fresno yesterday in a cortege of hearses, brought there from Yosemite where an inquest had been held early yesterday morning.

DENIES DELAY

Judge Refuses Extension in Copper Hearing.

Probate Judge C. J. Anderson said today he had been asked to grant a week's delay in a second insanity hearing for Harry Copper, city patrolman, due to appear before the court Saturday, but that the state prohibits any extension beyond the 60-day commitment period.

Copper was placed in the custody of relatives in Jackson county two months ago after he was determined "mentally ill" by Judge Anderson, and was ordered to appear for a second examination and hearing at the end of the 60-day rest period.

Judge Anderson said he "thought the request for an extension came from Chief of Police Meade K. Bates."

Bates was out of the city today and could not be reached for a statement. Atty J. V. Will, who is representing Copper, also was not available for comment.

McCall, On Trial Today, Might Go to Chair in Next 12 Days

(By United Press)

MIAMI, Fla. — Franklin Pierce McCall, kidnaper of five-year-old Jimmy Cash, was ordered before Circuit Judge H. F. Atkinson today for a trial without a jury. The trial may send him to his death in the electric chair in 12 days.

McCall, 21, pleaded guilty yesterday to the charge of kidnaping the tow-haired Princeton boy. He pleaded not guilty to murdering him. He said the child was smothered accidentally by handkerchiefs wrapped around his face to stifle his outcries

Trial on the kidnaping charge was called for today. It is little more than a hearing. The state's attorney, G. A. Worley, presents the evidence against the prisoner and from this, the judge will decide the degree of guilt and the punishment.

The Florida "Lindbergh" law provides a death penalty unless the jury recommends mercy. Since McCall pleaded guilty and will have no jury, his sentence is at the judge's discretion.

Should the court pronounce the sentence at once and decree death, Gov. Fred P. Cone must set the date for execution. He may set it as early as the week of June 27.

STUDIES PLAN TAXING FUTURE FOR NEEDY AID

House Gets Proposal to Give Rural Counties Funds They Won't Need.

TRY FOR VOTE TOMORROW

Program Would Provide Ohio Counties With 21 Millions Through 'Mortgage.'

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — An unofficial Democratic house committee reversed its policy today and proposed a $21,000,000 "five-year mortgage" against future state revenues to finance relief this year without local matching. Under the proposal, rural counties would receive relief funds they do not need.

Speaker Frank R. Uible, admitting the proposal represents a sop thrown to the rural bloc to win its support, said house sentiment would be tested on the program with a view to bringing it up for passage Thursday.

Serious Opposition Ahead.

It may meet serious opposition in the house from both Democrats and Republicans alike, to say nothing of the senate which in a joint caucus tentatively agreed on a much different plan which will be further developed in another caucus today. If the house should pass the committee program, there appeared a good chance for a stalemate between the two branches.

The house committee scrapped plans for local enabling legislation and 50-50 matching. Instead it agreed the state should raise the full $21,000,000—of which one-third would go to rural counties which do not need it—by pledging income from the .65 per cent utilities excise tax and the beer, malt, wort and admissions taxes through 1944. They are now available for relief only through 1939.

Counties could raise funds by issuing notes in anticipation of collection. Rural counties, receiving allocations despite the absence of a relief problem, could wait for accruals but would use their portion to reduce their real estate tax rates.

$7,000,000 Not Needed.

Under the formula system agreed upon it was estimated only $14,000,000 would be allocated

BEATEN AGAIN

Lewis Loses in New Move to Have 'Blacklist' Law.

WASHINGTON —(UP)— House Speaker William B. Bankhead today blocked a last-minute effort by John L. Lewis to obtain a house vote on a bill to establish a "blacklist" of government contractors who violate the Wagner Labor Relations act.

Bankhead's statement came as Lewis' 11th hour request and a filibuster in the senate complicated leadership plans for adjournment by midnight tonight.

Bankhead announced his flat refusal to co-operate in a plan urged by Lewis to bring up the controversial proposed amendment to the Walsh-Healey government contracts act under suspension of house rules.

He declared he would not recognize any house member who sought the floor to move suspension of house rules to permit consideration of the measure demanded by Lewis.

ADJOURNMENT OF SESSION PERILED BY HOT DEBATE

U. S. Payment of All Costs For Dams, Reservoir Construction Arouses Foes After Wage-Hour Measure Passes, Goes to White House.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.) resumed a talking marathon on the $375,000,000 flood control bill today. His determination and that of some of his colleagues to force changes in the measure threatened to delay congressional adjournment beyond tonight.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—An unexpected outbreak of senate speechmaking put a big question mark today behind leaders' predictions of congressional adjournment this evening.

Administration chieftains thought they had arranged a quick clean-up of remaining legislation to let members catch midnight trains for home—and re-election campaigns.

With the wage-hour bill finally enacted the senate gave partial approval last night to the $3,753,000,000 relief and public works bill.

Then, shortly before 1 a. m., the $375,000,000 flood control bill provoked a round of lively senate debate which participants called "discussion" and administration lieutenants described as "filibuster."

The bill already had been passed by both senate and house, differences had been compromised by a joint committee, and the house had accepted the compromise.

In the controversy in the senate, however, was a provision requiring the government to bear the cost of dam and reservoir construction, plus the cost of condemnation proceedings. States would not be required to put up any money.

Given Broad Powers.

The government also would be given broad condemnation powers for flood control projects and could build dams in one state even if other states would receive most of the benefits.

Senator O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.), who led the fight against these provisions, contended they would abrogate states' rights.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, told the senate it must dispose of the flood control bill before adjournment.

"We don't have to adjourn this week," he told reporters. "If opponents want to keep on talking, we can stay here."

O'Mahoney would say only that "there are a number of senators who wish to discuss this bill, and I don't know how long it will take."

He rejected a request by Barkley to set a definite time for voting on the measure. As a result, Barkley called the senate into an unusual 10 a. m. session today.

Before encountering the flood control deadlock, the senate approved most provisions of the relief bill but refused to accept two house amendments.

One would cut from $1,000,000 to $500,000 the sum allocated to the rural electrification administration for administrative expenses. The other would set up a new formula for distributing payments from the $212,000,000 provided for additional farm benefits.

Back In Committee.

The controversial points went back to a joint senate-house committee which originally composed differences between relief bills passed by the two chambers.

The wage-hour bill, one of President Roosevelt's major recommendations, received a top-heavy 290-to-89 vote of approval yesterday in the house. The senate, without even bothering to call the roll, sent it on to the White House for the president's assured signature. The far-reaching measure then will become effective in 120 days.

The two chambers spent most of last evening approving or rejecting piles of run-of-the-mine legislation. Galleries were crowded. Spectators

Here's Explanation of Wage Bill Awaiting Roosevelt O.K.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Only President Roosevelt's signature was needed today to start an unprecedented federal program for nationwide regulation of industrial work hours and minimum pay.

Congress approved compromise legislation late yesterday after senate debate that left little doubt the law soon would encounter a constitutional test in the courts.

The act is calculated to fix the minimum pay and the maximum hours of 75,000 industrial workers, as well as the hours of another 1,500,000 unaffected by the wage provisions. It will go into effect 120 days after being signed by the president.

The president may appoint immediately an administrator with broad powers to interpret the act and to instruct committees of employers, workers and private citizens to be set up for each interstate industry.

The industrial committees will be established as quickly as possible in an effort to raise the minimum wage of all industries to 40 cents an hour. For the first year the statutory minimum will be 25 cents, advancing to 30 cents for another year.

For the next five years the committees will fix the minima, which thereafter will increase to 40 cents in all industries where that scale

Farewells Ring Out on Capitol Hill as Homeward Trek Starts

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The hubbub at Capitol Hill was like the last day of school today—summer was in the air and the talk was of home

Boxes and bundles crammed congressmen's offices, and the halls were full of farewells . . . Some members will return next year and some may never be heard of in Washington again.

An atmosphere of mellowness settled where bitterness and strife had been. . . . Two senators spoke to each other for the first time in months . . . A Democrat and a Republican walked arm-in-arm from the capitol to the house office building.

Certain freshmen lawmakers will go home after congress adjourns tonight far wiser in the ways of politics The young man who came to congress intending to make a speech that would electrify the galleries and stamp him as a statesman hasn't made it yet, or if he has, it didn't electrify.

Another one, who didn't intend to make a speech his first term, got excited one afternoon and did so well that oldsters nodded in approval.

Look over this arena of American politics, and questions whizz through your thoughts:

Is there a man down there who is to be president some day, a fellow you know so well you can call him by his first name?

Some are there who will become cabinet members. . . . Some are to become wide-world personalities. . . . Who are they?

Jews Seeking Escape From Fresh Terrors In Germany

BERLIN SHOPS SMEARED WITH PAINT BY NAZIS

Consulates Crowded in Rush to Leave Germany; Many Arrested, Report.

(By United Press)

BERLIN—Jews lined up before the American and other consulates today, seeking escape from Nazi Germany, as a new and mysterious anti-Jewish wave spread through Berlin and the provinces.

Sporadic incidents against Jews, apparently organized by individual Nazis, were increasing.

It was persistently reported that many Jews were being arrested, not only here but in such cities as Koenigsberg, Essen and Breslay. Authorities said they knew nothing of any official anti-Jewish action, and there was some reason to believe that many of the Jews reported arrested actually were called to police stations to register under the new decree which obligates Jews, German and foreign, to declare all property they possess in excess of $5,000 marks ($2,000).

However, incidents reminiscent of the "April Fools Day" boycott of 1933, just after the Nazi rise to power, and of the summer of 1935, were increasing.

Paint Signs on Walks.

In the Bayerischerplatz, a large square in the west end where many Jews live, crosses of David and signs "Jewish shops" with indicative arrows were smeared in white paint on the sidewalks.

In the middle of the street, the injunction "Germans! do not buy in Jew shops" was painted in big letters.

In the east end, Jewish shops were defaced with smears of white paint on windows.

"This Jew beat a member of the Hitler youth. Do not buy from this Jew pig," read a sign on one window.

With their passports confiscated, with dealings in "emigrant marks" virtually blocked so that Jews can not obtain even a fraction of the value of their businesses if they sell to go abroad, and finally with the new property-registration decree authorizing the Nazis to "utilize" Jewish fortunes of more than 5,000 marks, the Jewish community was increasingly dismayed.

Hogan Studio to Present Annual Revue Tomorrow

The 16th annual revue of the Marty Hogan Studio of Dance will be presented at the Madison theater Thursday night, sponsored by Camp Charles Dick, United Spanish War Veterans.

Approximately 80 of the Hogan students will be presented in ensembles, solos and group dances and musical numbers. Fred Judd and his orchestra will provide the musical background.

At the microphone as master of ceremonies will be Jack Gates, assisted by Danny Reinhart of Columbus. Gates is an instructor at the Hogan studio and Reinhart is a professional entertainer.

Among the "star" students are Janice Holmes of Willard, who has had a headline place on the revue program for several years; Mary Lou Kubic, also a "veteran" of five annual revues; Thomas McNew, jr., who has appeared in a number of Ohio cities, and Mary Ellen Seeburger, singing a special arrangement of "Blue Prelude."

A picture, "Hunted Men," will supplement the stage show.

Novel stunts have been devised to reveal wedding announcements, but one of the cleverest this June was invented by a West End hostess. She made the announcement in the form of "letting the cat out of the bag." At the shower, the bride-to-be received among many gifts a bag tied with a ribbon. A cat jumped out of the bag as she opened it and tied to the kitten's neck was the announcement of the approaching marriage.

Loyalists Mass 80,000 Men South of Castellon for Last-Ditch Stand.

(By United Press)

HENDAYE, FRENCH-SPANISH FRONTIER—Strong Loyalist forces, totaling 70,000 to 80,000 men, are massed south of Castellon de la Plana for a determined stand which the government hopes will break the Nationalist offensive against Valencia, dispatches to the border indicated today.

Reports from the front indicated that the Nationalists had been stopped, at least temporarily, a few miles south of Castellon, and Nationalist communiques indicated that the city itself, vitally important to the insurgents as a naval base, has not been entirely conquered. Loyalist bands held out stoutly against Nationalists.

Outside Castellon, Nationalist vanguard units reached as far as Villareal, six miles southwest of the city, but the Loyalists appeared to have halted them there.

The Loyalists wrecked a number of bridges across the Mijares river in their retreat from Castellon and this impeded the Nationalist advance enough to enable government troops to take up new defense positions.

It appeared to border observers that the Nationalists intended chiefly to guard against the threat of a Loyalist counter attack, rather than continue the drive southward.

SCOUT CAMP TO OPEN MONDAY

36 Troops in Area Sends Boys to Experimental Sessions.

Sixty Boy Scouts from the Johnny Appleseed area are expected to attend the annual scout experimental camp which opens Monday at Alum Rocks, near Greer on the Mohican river. The camp continues until June 25.

Each of the 36 troops in the area is allowed to send two representatives to the camp for the week period. Some will only send one, Floyd Dent, area scout executive, said.

While at camp the scouts will take a course of training which includes cooking, games, camp layout, nature study, pioneering and administration of overnight camping.

COUNTY RELIEF COSTS $6 LESS PER CASE THAN STATE AVERAGE

While unpaid relief bills in Mansfield neared $30,000 today with no immediate funds in sight, dispatches from Columbus said that relief expenditures which totaled $12.48 per individual case in Richland county during May was $6 below the state average of $18.56.

O. P. Van Schoik, relief examiner in the state auditor's office, reported that relief expenditures in Ohio's 88 counties ranged from a low of $5.63 in Vinton county to a high of $30.19 in Geauga county.

His report showed that three nearby counties also were administrating relief at a below-average figure. They were Knox, with an individual case expenditure of $13.56; Crawford county $14.76; and Huron county $18.05, while Ashland county is above the state average, spending $19.70 per case in May.

Van Schoik told the state board of control that Washington and Muskingum counties, the only two to operate relief commissary systems, were among the lowest in case costs. Large scale wholesale purchases of relief commodities and efficient distribution to clients through the commissaries held the individual case expenditures to $9.25 in Muskingum and $10.40 in Washington counties, he said.

The state-wide average was below similar relief costs in other states, notably New York, where the case cost reached approximately $40, Van Schoik explained to the board as it considered an emergency allocation of $1,500,000 to financially distressed counties.

For the state as a whole, the average case represented 4.2 persons being supported one month by the average relief grant of $18.56, Van Schoik said.

In the entire state, 12 counties had an average case expenditure below $10. They were Athens, Champaign, Greene, Guernsey, Hardin, Harrison, Muskingum, Preble, Seneca, Union, Vinton and Wyandot.

Ten counties showed average case costs of more than $20. They were Ashtabula, Cuyahoga, Erie, Geauga, Hamilton, Lucas, Monroe, Morrow, Ottawa and Trumbull.

UP, NOT DOWN

War Debt Climbs Upward as Only Finland Pays.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — War debts to the United States increased by more than $100,000,000 today instead of diminishing as the June installments fell due.

Of the 13 debtor nations, only Finland paid the full installment.

Most of the debtors, including Great Britain, expressed willingness to discuss debt settlement.

Interest of $104,900,000 went unpaid today and brought the total debt close to $13,000,000,000.

PROBE FILLING STATION THEFT

Candy and Gum Taken; Police Blame It on Gang of Boys.

Police today were investigating the burglary of the Mathews Oil company filling station, 302 North Mulberry street, in which candy and gum amounting to $4.75 was taken.

Police were called to the filling station by Merle E. Landon, the manager, when he opened the establishment at 7 a. m. to find a candy case looted.

Officers who investigated said they believed the burglary to be the work of some boys. Entrance was gained by breaking a window in the rear of the building.

FATHER AND SON RESCUED AFTER 45-HOUR VIGIL

Crowd Greets Men Entombed by Tons of Earth, Rock Falling Into Pit.

(By United Press)

ASHLAND, Pa. — Two coal miners who were trapped nearly 300 feet underground for 45 hours were rescued today.

A crew of workers broke through to them and they walked from the mine unaided.

The miners, Peter Shinkowsky, 48, and his 18-year-old son, Peter, jr., were taken to Ashland State hospital where they were reported in good condition.

Dr. R. L. Duffy, who went into the mine after rescue workers burrowed shaft to the men, said the youth was in weakened condition, but that the father appeared none the worse for his experience.

"Thank God we're out of here," was the elder Shinkowsky's only comment when they emerged. More than 200 persons, including 16-year-old Mary Shinkowsky, daughter and sister of the trapped men, awaited them.

Rock, Earth Fall.

The two men were working deep in the pit when tons of earth and rock, dislodged when a mine buggy broke from its moorings and knocked the shaft timbering loose, roared down the shaft. The avalanche came to a precarious halt about half way down the hole, burying the two men below.

In relays of 10-men shifts, members of the Independent Miners' union worked through the night and by morning had succeeded in penetrating about 20 feet through the debris.

Hot coffee and egg nog were dropped down the long two-inch pipe in special paper containers, 10 inches long and only an inch and a half wide.

The father and son are two of thousands who operate, technically in violation of the law, in abandoned pits to which the Collieries still have title.

FUTILE LABOR

Burglars Haul Safe Away, Get Nothing From It.

Burglars who removed a heavy safe from the Auto Service station on route 39 near Lucas last night were due for a surprise when they open the safe, Ralph Jones, proprietor of the station, told county authorities today.

Jones said the safe contained only some papers and no cash or anything of value.

The burglars, however, guarded against tire trouble in making their escape by taking six automobile tires, six inner tubes and a shot gun, Sheriff E. P. Long said.

Jones told the sheriff his establishment, just east of Lucas, was looted some time after midnight. The burglars gained entrance by breaking a window.

Officers said they were uncertain whether the loot was hauled away in a passenger automobile or a light truck.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Foreign Families Living In U. S. Need Offer No Apology For Being Here

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—There is in this country a class of citizens who believe the true American is a person of British, Irish, Scandinavian or North German stock and that all other Americans, even of the third or fourth generation, are here by their very kind permission and courtesy and owe a police duty, as guests, to conform to their habits and ideas.

I recently heard a speech by a noted American World war commander, in which he advanced this thought and threatened, if these others did not show the proper attitude, then they had a way in the army of compelling obedience. He said that if "they" insisted on abusing the liberty which he, acting through his forebears, had established here, then the real Americans, of whom he acknowledged himself to be one, would have to take firm measures.

The distinguished officer seemed to regard the United States as a rather exclusive suburban country club which, in order to meet the overhead in a period of necessity, had admitted large numbers of Class B members. He and his class, of course, enjoyed full membership, and each owned a share of the stock. They were annoyed by the bad manners of the Class B group and were beginning to regret that they had been allowed to come in and, worse, given voting privileges.

* * *

The officer made no mention of the work for the benefit of the club which the Class B had performed, the pick and shovel duty, all the hard and dirty tasks with which the Class A citizens of the last few generations had been too smart and fastidious to soil their hands. He complained that the country was overcrowded, with 122,000,000 demanding food, cover and clothing, as compared with 50,000,000 50 years ago.

There were only 100 or so in the audience, and the flutter of applause when he finished his remarks may have been merely a tribute of politeness to the man rather than approval of anything in his speech.

It seemed a proper occasion for someone to remind the gallant soldier that he was in no position to peer down his nose at any other law-abiding citizen and in fact, was himself in need of some reminding as to the meaning of liberty and Americanism.

* * *

We brought in millions of Italians, Serbs, Poles, Greeks and Rumanians to do the strong-back work, and nobody is going to send them back and nobody is going to make Anglo-Saxons of them. They are just Americans, and it would be good to have it understood that no individual among these people owes any apology to anyone else on the ground that the other one's ancestors farmed a New England patch before the revolution.

I discussed the officer's remarks with him after he had left the platform and tried to learn just how anyone would go about compelling "them" to show a proper appreciation of the American liberties without destroying the very liberties which he was so anxious to preserve.

He couldn't give a very clear idea of the procedure, and plainly was just out of patience with the active citizenship of peoples who have now been here long enough to feel they are Americans, not the docile greenhorns of old.

Most ill-mannered of them, but it should have been realized back in the days of the heavy immigration that the newcomers would stay and breed and that some day about now their descendants would take their citizenship seriously, millions of them with no claim to, nor desire for classification as Anglo-Saxons.

Hollywood Speaks---

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—It has been months since Garbo coughed in "Camille" and now here we are at the threshold of a new "cough cycle" in pictures. Margaret Sullavan in "Three Comrades," Luise Rainer in "The Toy Wife" are our latest latest victims of acute bronchial trouble.

In the old silent pictures only one shot of the young wife knitting tiny garments was needed to convey the idea that a little bundle of joy was in the offing. The cinema cough is becoming just as effective a symbol foreshadowing the future. The only danger is that in the "cough cycle" if a heroine but clears her throat in all innocence, the audiences will cry "Ah, ha!" and reach for their handkerchiefs.

That reminds us, of course, of the revival of "A Farewell to Arms," still after six years one of the better "good cries" of the screen. It comes opportunely, now that Gary Cooper has reached stellar eminence at the box-office, while Helen Hayes, disdaining pictures, has proved that even out of them one can build and keep one's fame.

* * *

"A Farewell to Arms," only slightly censored from its pre-Breen warmth and frankness, is still a moving and powerful picture. Frank Borzage, who directed, has yet to top the horrifying pageantry of the Italian retreat, and his skill in tenderly romantic interludes was as notable then as now.

Miss Hayes, even then, could show most of Hollywood's beauties how to act without seeming to, and Cooper in 1932, with this performance, was working up to the interesting ingenuous style which now characterizes his every film. Adolphe Menjou's work is still a gem of acting, and the whole thing is singularly undated.

* * *

Having seen Borzage's "Three Comrades"—his latest work—but a few days before, we were impressed with the director's fondness for Wagnerian music in his scoring. The ending, in the new picture and the old, is virtually the same, with similar settings—and both Miss Hayes and Miss Sullavan are given tearful farewell to the rising strains of Isolde's Love Death music. But Borzage probably realized that if better music for a "love death" could have been written, Wagner would have written it—and in "Three Comrades," at least, the director omitted the sunburst of pigeons in the fade-out.

CHANGES TAKE EFFECT IN VET COMPENSATION

Newly Enacted Legislation Expected to Benefit at Least 200 in County.

Important changes in veterans compensation regulations which will effect a number of persons in Mansfield and Richland county, will be put into effect immediately, Gertrude B English executive secretary of the Richland County Red Cross, said today

The newly enacted legislation affects Spanish war veterans and the widows and dependents of World war veterans Mrs English said that while the actual number of persons in Richland county benefiting by the law was not available, it was estimated that the total would be more than 200

Law Extends Benefits.

The amended law makes compensation for death not due to service available to widows and children of World war veterans whose service-connected disability rating was only ten per cent. Previously death benefits were paid in such cases only to veterans who were 30 per cent disabled

"Thus, a widow is entitled to compensation if her husband is killed or dies from natural causes not connected with his war service, as long as he had a service-connected disability rating of 10 per cent" Mrs English pointed out

The new law also increases the pensions of Spanish war veterans at the age of 65 instead of 75 as formerly If a Spanish war veteran has served at least 90 days or has served less than that but incurred a disability during that time, he will receive $60 a month when he is 65 years old The act also increases from $72 to $100 the monthly pension of veterans whose physical or mental condition requires the regular attendance of nurse or other assistant

The increased pensions are effective from the date on which application is filed, Mrs English explained, and veterans, widows and nurses must apply for it as it does not change automatically Veterans' widows must apply within one year after their husband's death for future awards

Benefits in no cases will go back farther than May 13 1938 the day on which the legislation was signed by the president.

Because of the large number of cases to be reviewed and applications filed, appointments should be made by telephone for Red Cross assistance, Mrs. English said.

THEATER

NOT even the oldsters among theater goers will remember enough of Sara Bernhardt's play "Mlle Frou Frou" to identify it with Louise Rainer's new picture "The Toy Wife" Yet the fact remains that the little Rainer who achieved the academy award two years in succession, is now interpreting the role of the vain and frivolous daughter of Louisiana aristocracy which once provided the great Bernhardt with a popular vehicle The story has been "Americanized" by Zoe Akins, from the original French drama, the locale laid in America and the characters all Americans Melvyn Douglas has the same sort of role he played in "Gorgeous Hussy", that of a rising political star who marries the shallow Frou-Frou Robert Young turns from the idealism of his character in "Three Comrades" to play the handsome scapegrace who entices Frou-Frou to run away from her husband The picture is about ready for release

"Hellzapoppin" at Madison.

The new Olsen and Johnson show is good for what ails you, whether it's dyspepsia or depression for these two veteran comedy-makers of the vaudeville stage have stirred up a dish of entertainment that smoothly blends nonsense, music, a well-trained and personable chorus, and several unique talents The show, which opened yesterday at the Madison and runs through tonight, is 73 minutes of sheer tomfoolery with the Three Radio Rogues putting on a show all of their own The Rogues as impersonators begin where all others leave off, their take-off of Clark Gable in "Test Pilot," and of Edward G Robinson in "Last Gangster' was positively uncanny in realism while their impersonations of Wallace Beery, Kenny Baker Jack Benny, Ben Bernie, Kate Smith and other stars sent last night's audience into rounds of applause Walter Nilsson, the "loose nut on wheels," is second to none as a novelty cyclist Then there's a colored tap dancer, two girls who sing "Old Man River" in a different way, Reed, Dean and Reed, and Shirley Wayne and a dancing team—all definitely contributing to the fast entertainment A number of stooges work through the audience, and while you miss the "balloons, balloons" stunt of last year's show there is 'Oscar' to make up for it There are a couple dozen new gags, spicy but not offensive, in the new show.

Old Query Bobs Up.

The old question of whether a woman should conceal her past from her husband is the inspiration for the basic idea of "You And Me" which brings Sylvia Sidney and George Raft to the Ohio screen in a dramatic picture play To tell him the truth in this instance meant losing her one slim chance of future happiness, but not to tell him was taking a chance on losing her happiness after she had it within her grasp She took the chance and lost Miss Sidney who may always be depended upon for a fine dramatic performance, has a role that provides her opportunity, that of the girl who has served a prison term and has been paroled George Raft who appeared with Miss Sidney several seasons ago in 'Pick Up' is an exgangster trying to go straight The picture runs through Friday

"Submarine D 1 is essentially a man's picture with all of the important character men and the plot material pretty strong fare for the feminine contingent of the audience The major characters are Pat O Brien and Wayne 'Kid Gallahad' Morris as two rival sailors and George Brent as their commanding officer Much of the action takes place on a submarine and the exciting climax is staged at the bottom of the sea after a submarine is sunk It isn't a war picture but deals with experiments in submarine warfare Doris Weston is the only concession to romance The picture is being shown at the Majestic with Paul Muni's greatest picture drama The Life of Emile Zola'

ASKS SENATE TO PROBE LORAIN ELECTION BOARD

Hurley's Resolution Hits at Democratic Leader Opposing His Renomination.

Senator William F. Hurley, of Lorian, who is being opposed for renomination by the regular Democratic organization in the 27th-29th senatorial district which includes Richland county, today had asked the state senate for the appointment of a three-member committee to investigate the office of deputy supervisor of elections in Lorain.

The office is held by B N Harris, veteran Democratic executive committee chairman in Lorain county, who has actively opposed Hurley in his campaign for renomination.

Hurley accused Harris, who also is a member of the county board of elections, of seeking to prevent his renomination and of "moral turpitude and malfeasance nusfeasance and nonfeasance in office."

Hints at Irregularities.

Hurley's resolution asking for the investigation said there had been brought to the senate's attention "charges of certain alleged irregularities in office by the member of the board of elections of Lorain county who has been placed in charge of election matters in the city of Lorain"

Harris, who has been a member of the Lorain county Democratic executive committee for more than 40 years, was in Mansfield yesterday with Maurice C Brown, Lorain, whom he is backing for the senatorial nomination against Hurley Harris and Brown conferred here with E. B. Kallmerten, Richland county Democratic executive chairman, who also is supporting Brown for the nomination.

BERLIN SHOPS SMEARED WITH PAINT BY NAZIS

Consulates Crowded in Rush to Leave Germany; Many Arrested, Report.

(By United Press)

BERLIN—Jews lined up before the American and other consulates today, seeking escape from Nazi Germany, as a new and mysterious anti-Jewish wave spread through Berlin and the provinces.

Sporadic incidents against Jews, apparently organized by individual Nazis, were increasing.

It was persistently reported that many Jews were being arrested, not only here but in such cities as Koenigsberg, Essen and Breslay. Authorities said they knew nothing of any official anti-Jewish action, and there was some reason to believe that many of the Jews reported arrested actually were called to police stations to register under the new decree which obligates Jews, German and foreign, to declare all property they possess in excess of $5,000 marks ($2,000).

However, incidents reminiscent of the "April Fools Day" boycott of 1933, just after the Nazi rise to power, and of the summer of 1935, were increasing.

Paint Signs on Walks.

In the Bayerischerplatz, a large square in the west end where many Jews live, crosses of David and signs "Jewish shops" with indicative arrows were smeared in white paint on the sidewalks.

In the middle of the street, the injunction "Germans! do not buy in Jew shops" was painted in big letters.

In the east end, Jewish shops were defaced with smears of white paint on windows.

With their passports confiscated, with dealings in "emigrant marks" virtually blocked so that Jews can not obtain even a fraction of the value of their businesses if they sell to go abroad, and finally with the new property-registration decree authorizing the Nazis to "utilize" Jewish fortunes of more than 5,000 marks, the Jewish community was increasingly dismayed.

Hogan Studio to Present Annual Revue Tomorrow

The 16th annual revue of the Marty Hogan Studio of Dance will be presented at the Madison theater Thursday night, sponsored by Camp Charles Dick, United Spanish War Veterans.

The Hogan revue, which has become something of an institution in Mansfield over a period of years, has been presented under the auspices of the veterans for the past five years. Funds are used for charitable and organization work.

Approximately 80 of the Hogan students will be presented in ensembles, solos and group dances and musical numbers. Fred Judd and his orchestra will provide the musical background.

At the microphone as master of ceremonies will be Jack Gates, assisted by Danny Reinhart of Columbus. Gates is an instructor at the Hogan studio and Reinhart is a professional entertainer.

Among the "star" students are Janice Holmes of Willard, who has had a headline place on the revue program for several years; Mary Lou Kubic, also a "veteran" of five annual revues; Thomas McNew, jr., who has appeared in a number of Ohio cities, and Mary Ellen Seeburger, singing a special arrangement of "Blue Prelude."

A picture, "Hunted Men," will supplement the stage show.

Novel stunts have been devised to reveal wedding announcements, but one of the cleverest this June was invented by a West End hostess. She made the announcement in the form of "letting the cat out of the bag." At the shower, the bride-to-be received among many gifts a bag tied with a ribbon. A cat jumped out of the bag as she opened it and tied to the kitten's neck was the announcement of the approaching marriage.

FATHER AND SON RESCUED AFTER 45-HOUR VIGIL

Crowd Greets Men Entombed by Tons of Earth, Rock Falling Into Pit.

(By United Press)

ASHLAND, Pa. — Two coal miners who were trapped nearly 200 feet underground for 45 hours were rescued today.

A crew of workers broke through to them and they walked from the mine unaided.

The miners, Peter Shinkowsky, 48, and his 18-year-old son, Peter, jr., were taken to Ashland State hospital where they were reported in good condition.

Dr. R. L. Duffy, who went into the mine after rescue workers burrowed shaft to the men, said the youth was in weakened condition, but that the father appeared none the worse for his experience.

"Thank God we're out of here," was the elder Shinkowsky's only comment when they emerged More than 200 persons, including 16-year-old Mary Shinkowsky, daughter and sister of the trapped men, awaited them.

Rock, Earth Fall.

The two men were working deep in the pit when tons of earth and rock, dislodged when a mine buggy broke from its moorings and knocked the shaft timbering loose, roared down the shaft. The avalanche came to a precarious halt about half way down the hole, burying the two men below.

In relays of 10-men shifts, members of the Independent Miners' union worked through the night and by morning had succeeded in penetrating about 20 feet through the debris.

Hot coffee and egg nog were dropped down the long two-inch pipe in special paper containers, 10 inches long and only an inch and a half wide.

The father and son are two of thousands who operate, technically in violation of the law, in abandoned pits to which the Collieries still have title.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Foreign Families Living In U. S. Need Offer No Apology For Being Here

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—There is in this country a class of citizens who believe the true American is a person of British, Irish, Scandinavian or North German stock and that all other Americans, even of the third or fourth generation, are here by their very kind permission and courtesy and owe a police duty, as guests, to conform to their habits and ideas.

I recently heard a speech by a noted American World war commander, in which he advanced this thought and threatened, if these others did not show the proper attitude, then they had a way in the army of compelling obedience. He said that if "they" insisted on abusing the liberty which he, acting through his forebears, had established here, then the real Americans, of whom he acknowledged himself to be one, would have to take firm measures.

The distinguished officer seemed to regard the United States as a rather exclusive suburban country club which, in order to meet the overhead in a period of necessity, had admitted large numbers of Class B members. He and his class, of course, enjoyed full membership, and each owned a share of the stock. They were annoyed by the bad manners of the Class B group and were beginning to regret that they had been allowed to come in and, worse, given voting privileges.

* * *

The officer made no mention of the work for the benefit of the club which the Class B had performed, the pick and shovel duty, all the hard and dirty tasks with which the Class A citizens of the last few generations had been too smart and fastidious to soil their hands. He complained that the country was overcrowded, with 122,000,000 demanding food, cover and clothing, as compared with 50,000,000 50 years ago.

There were only 100 or so in the audience, and the flutter of applause when he finished his remarks may have been merely a tribute of politeness to the man rather than approval of anything in his speech.

It seemed a proper occasion for someone to remind the gallant soldier that he was in no position to peer down his nose at any other law-abiding citizen and in fact, was himself in need of some reminding as to the meaning of liberty and Americanism.

* * *

We brought in millions of Italians, Serbs, Poles, Greeks and Rumanians to do the strong-back work, and nobody is going to send them back and nobody is going to make Anglo-Saxons of them. They are just Americans, and it would be good to have it understood that no individual among these people owes any apology to anyone else on the ground that the other one's ancestors farmed a New England patch before the revolution.

I discussed the officer's remarks with him after he had left the platform and tried to learn just how anyone would go about compelling "them" to show a proper appreciation of the American liberties without destroying the very liberties which he was so anxious to preserve.

He couldn't give a very clear idea of the procedure, and plainly was just out of patience with the active citizenship of peoples who have now been here long enough to feel they are Americans, not the docile greenhorns of old.

Most ill-mannered of them, but it should have been realized back in the days of the heavy immigration that the newcomers would stay and breed and that some day about now their descendants would take their citizenship seriously, millions of them with no claim to, nor desire for classification as Anglo-Saxons.

SEEK TO BLOCK VALENCIA DRIVE

Loyalists Mass 80,000 Men South of Castellon for Last-Ditch Stand.

(By United Press)

HENDAYE, FRENCH-SPANISH FRONTIER—Strong Loyalist forces, totaling 70,000 to 80,000 men, are massed south of Castellon de la Plana for a determined stand which the government hopes will break the Nationalist offensive against Valencia, dispatches to the border indicated today.

Reports from the front indicated that the Nationalists had been stopped, at least temporarily, a few miles south of Castellon, and Nationalist communiques indicated that the city itself, vitally important to the insurgents as a naval base, has not been entirely conquered. Loyalist bands held out stoutly against Nationalists.

Outside Castellon, Nationalist vanguard units reached as far as Villareal, six miles southwest of the city, but the Loyalists appeared to have halted them there.

The Loyalists wrecked a number of bridges across the Mijares river in their retreat from Castellon and this impeded the Nationalist advance enough to enable government troops to take up new defense positions.

It appeared to border observers that the Nationalists intended chiefly to guard against the threat of a Loyalist counter attack, rather than continue the drive southward.

ON COMMITTEE

W. C. Mansfield Named to Study Tax Readjustment.

W. C. Mansfield, president of the Mansfield real estate board today was appointed to the committee on real estate taxation of the National association of real estate boards to represent the local real estate organization in a study of means for readjusting tax structures. Earl McBride, Youngstown was appointed to represent the state of Ohio.

Former Governor Myers Y. Cooper is chairman of the committee, which is made up of one representative from each of 456 cities, and one each from the various states.

Plans now being outlined by the committee call for more active intercommunication between the states with the study by the committee centering on the question of best action to achieve readjustment of the real estate tax system.

COUNTY RELIEF COSTS $6 LESS PER CASE THAN STATE AVERAGE

While unpaid relief bills in Mansfield neared $30,000 today with no immediate funds in sight, dispatches from Columbus said that relief expenditures which totaled $12.48 per individual case in Richland county during May was $6 below the state average of $18.56.

O. P. Van Schoik, relief examiner in the state auditor's office, reported that relief expenditures in Chio's 88 counties ranged from a low of $5.63 in Vinton county to a high of $30.19 in Geauga county.

His report showed that three nearby counties also were administrating relief at a below-average figure. They were Knox, with an individual case expenditure of $13.56; Crawford county $14.76; and Huron county $18.05, while Ashland county is above the state average, spending $19.70 per case in May.

Van Schoik told the state board of control that Washington and Muskingum counties, the only two to operate relief commissary systems, were among the lowest in case costs. Large scale wholesale purchases of relief commodities and efficient distribution to clients through the commissaries held the individual case expenditures to $9.25 in Muskingum and $10.40 in Washington counties, he said.

The state-wide average was below similar relief costs in other states, notably New York, where the case cost reached approximately $40, Van Schoik explained to the board as it considered an emergency allocation of $1,500,000 to financially distressed counties.

For the state as a whole, the average case represented 4.2 persons being supported one month by the average relief grant of $18.56, Van Schoik said.

In the entire state, 12 counties had an average case expenditure below $10. They were Athens, Champaign, Greene, Guernsey, Hardin, Harrison, Muskingum, Preble, Seneca, Union, Vinton and Wyandot.

Ten counties showed average case costs of more than $20. They were Ashtabula, Cuyahoga, Erie, Geauga, Hamilton, Lucas, Monroe, Morrow, Ottawa and Trumbull.

War Debt Climbs Upward as Only Finland Pays.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — War debts to the United States increased by more than $100,000,000 today instead of diminishing as the June installments fell due.

Of the 13 debtor nations, only Finland paid the full installment.

Most of the debtors, including Great Britain, expressed willingness to discuss debt settlement.

Interest of $104,900,000 went unpaid today and brought the total debt close to $13,000,000,000.

PROBE FILLING STATION THEFT

Candy and Gum Taken; Police Blame It on Gang of Boys.

Police today were investigating the burglary of the Mathews Oil company filling station, 302 North Mulberry street, in which candy and gum amounting to $4.75 was taken.

Police were called to the filling station by Merle E. Landon, the manager, when he opened the establishment at 7 a. m. to find a candy case looted.

Officers who investigated said they believed the burglary to be the work of some boys. Entrance was gained by breaking a window in the rear of the building.

FUTILE LABOR

Burglars Haul Safe Away, Get Nothing From It.

Burglars who removed a heavy safe from the Auto Service station on route 39 near Lucas last night were due for a surprise when they open the safe, Ralph Jones, proprietor of the station, told county authorities today.

Jones said the safe contained only some papers and no cash or anything of value.

The burglars, however, guarded against tire trouble in making their escape by taking six automobile tires, six inner tubes and a shot gun, Sheriff E. P. Long said.

Jones told the sheriff his establishment, just east of Lucas, was looted some time after midnight. The burglars gained entrance by breaking a window.

Officers said they were uncertain whether the loot was hauled away in a passenger automobile or a light truck.

At least 75 Mansfield contractors and building supply dealers are expected to attend a meeting at the Southern hotel tonight, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, to discuss a proposed building code for Mansfield.

Paul W. Williams, secretary-manager of the chamber, said the group also will be addressed by representatives of the industrial commission of Ohio, who will talk on state safety regulations in building construction.

City officials have been invited to attend the meeting which is set for 7:30 p. m.

Hollywood Speaks—

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—It has been months since Garbo coughed in "Camille" and now here we are at the threshold of a new "cough cycle" in pictures. Margaret Sullavan in "Three Comrades," Luise Rainer in "The Toy Wife" are our latest latest victims of acute bronchial trouble.

In the old silent pictures only one shot of the young wife knitting tiny garments was needed to convey the idea that a little bundle of joy was in the offing. The cinema cough is becoming just as effective a symbol foreshadowing the future. The only danger is that in the "cough cycle" if a heroine but clears her throat in all innocence, the audiences will cry "Ah, ha!" and reach for their handkerchiefs.

That reminds us, of course, of the revival of "A Farewell to Arms," still after six years one of the better "good cries" of the screen. It comes opportunely, now that Gary Cooper has reached stellar eminence at the box-office, while Helen Hayes, disdaining pictures, has proved that even out of them one can build and keep one's fame.

* * *

"A Farewell to Arms," only slightly censored from its pre-Breen warmth and frankness, is still a moving and powerful picture. Frank Borzage, who directed, has yet to top the horrifying pageantry of the Italian retreat, and his skill in tenderly romantic interludes was as notable then as now.

Miss Hayes, even then, could show most of Hollywood's beauties how to act, without seeming to, and Cooper in 1932, with this performance, was working up to the interesting ingenuous style which now characterizes his every film. Adolphe Menjou's work is still a gem of acting, and the whole thing is singularly undated.

* * *

Having seen Borzage's "Three Comrades"—his latest work—but a few days before, we were impressed with the director's fondness for Wagnerian music in his scoring. The ending, in the new picture and the old, is virtually the same, with similar settings—and both Miss Hayes and Miss Sullavan are given tearful farewell to the rising strains of Isolde's Love Death music. But Borzage probably realized that if better music for a "love death" could have been written, Wagner would have written it—and in "Three Comrades," at least, the director omitted the sunburst of pigeons in the fade-out.

TITLE BOUT CAN'T MISS A MILLION GATE, SAYS BRIETZ.

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK — (AP) — Speculators here are asking—and getting $100 per copy for Schmeling-Louis ringsides originally priced at $30. . . . You can't buy ducats inside the 30th row at any of the "legitimate" box offices. . . . Biggest buyer to date is Publisher Annenberg of the Philadelphia Inquirer. . . . He went for $12,000 worth. . . . Interest is at high pitch and the bout can't miss a million. . . . At Pompton Lakes Sunday an irate fan unsheathed a razor to tickle the legs of a photographer who was blocking his view. . . . The photog moved away from there right pert like.

Max Baer

* * *

Gene Tunney is the fellow who talked Schmeling into doing a little road work for Louis. . . . In his previous bouts here Max never went on the road. . . . He'd take a short walk with Trainer Max Machon after dinner and let it go at that. . . . Now he's really trotting. . . . A pool appeared on Broadway today offering 5 to 1 against Louis scoring a knockout in the first three rounds; 4 to 1 against the champion doing it in the next six; 5 to 1 against his ending it in the 10th, 11th, or 12th, and 6 to 1 against his stopping the challenger in the last three hearts. . . . Odds against Schmeling stopping Joe are 8 to 1 for the first three; 6 to 1 in the 4th, 5th and 6th, and 5 to 1 that he doesn't end it in the next six. . . . It's 6 to 1 that Max doesn't finish Joe in the last three.

* * *

Pittsburgh fans are yowling so loud, they may have to remove the band from the bankroll out there after all. . . . The reason Max Baer is laughing off offers to fight Bob Pastor on the coast is that he is the No. 1 man to fight the Louis-Schmeling winner — and who blames him? . . . Rice may be the team to beat for national championship honors this year and don't forget we told you so in June.

* * *

Odds are the team of Max Schmeling and Joe Jacobs will break up after next Wednesday's fight. . . . Here is some real no-hit pitching for you. . . . Stan Berquam, tossing 'em up for a team in the Moorhead, Minn., softball league, fanned every one of the 27 Venice Garden batters the other day and won. . . . It's a softball league, sure, but such a grand performance rates a plug in this or any other collum.

* * *

THE Dodgers go under the lights tonight. . . . Is it true that next season will be "Little Sleepy" Glenn's last as coach of the West Virginia Mountaineers? . . . Trading season ends tomorrow; Yanks want a pitcher; Indians need an outfielder; Giants can use a right-hand hitting outfielder; Dodgers need pitching; Cards want a shortstop and the Bees want Buddy Hassett. . . . On your marks! . . . Go!

Leaders Face News-Journal

Thursday's play in The News-Journal Class B golf league may change the standings.

Headlining the Possum Run matches is a meeting between the Metal Vaults and News-Journals. The Vaults are the present leaders, with the newspapermen in second place, tied with the Bissman company.

The Bissman team also face trouble Thursday in Al's Kicks, who are tied for fourth place. Ohio Public Service faces the Elks and Central Fruit tackles the Auxter Motors in the other settos.

SCORES SEVEN RUNS WITH FOUR HITS TO WIN

Scoring four runs in the seventh without a hit, the Rasmussen Farm softball team defeated the Catholic Foresters 7 to 4 at North park yesterday. The Farm team cinched the game in the seventh on three walks and as many errors. Bidinger led the Farms with two hits, which included a home run in the eighth with none on. Kutschall collected a pair for the losers. Rachel allowed the Farms only four hits but issued five walks. He struck out eight. His teammates committed seven errors.

Louis Promises to Dispose of German If He'll 'Stand Up and Fight.'

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK—(AP)—If you can take Sleepy-eyed Joe Louis at his word—and Joe never was a fellow to talk just to hear his head rattle—the fight at Yankee stadium a week from tonight may be a brannigan such as hasn't been seen since Jack Dempsey and Luis Firpo used everything except poison gas on each other back in the colossal twenties.

The one little doubt about the impending duello has been the possibility that Louis would be gunshy and would try to play it cute, staying back of his left jab for 15 tedious rounds while Max Schmeling swore in German and waited in vain for a crack at the pliant Louis jaw.

Happily now, all such doubts of the approaching 19th battle of the century have been erased.

Louis has expressed the hope that Schmeling will "stand up and fight." If Schmeling will, Joe promises to dispose of him in not more than four rounds. Boyoboy! Stand back and quit getting in the way of the rescue squads.

A guy as filled with zeal and patriotic fervor as is Max Schmeling will fight anything. He is a crusader with an almost fanatical gleam in his eye. The one thing he has dreamed of for two years is another chance to hit Joe Louis. Joe need not worry about Max's willingness to whale it out.

Not that Schmeling will do anything foolish. If Louis means he wants the challenger to come out swinging, he will be disappointed. Max simply doesn't fight that way.

But if Louis wants to go after Schmeling and try to hang up that quick knockout, then he can be assured of action for his money. Max will meet him half-way, pumping that drastic right of his, and the results should be sudden and violent.

POMPTON LAKES, N. J.—(U.P.)—Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis took a day off from sparring today as he neared peak condition for his title defense against Max Schmeling in Yankee stadium June 22.

Louis gave his most impressive workout yesterday, boxing six rounds against three partners, and impressing such astute critics as former Champions Jimmy Braddock and Gene Tunney.

SPECULATOR, N. Y.—(U.P.)—Six rounds of boxing were on Max Schmeling's program today as he began his final week of training before meeting Joe Louis for the heavyweight championship next Wednesday night.

After today's sparring session, Max will confine his activities to roadwork and limbering up exercises tomorrow and Friday, then conclude his glove work Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Wednesday's The Day, Max

SPECULATOR, N. Y.—(AP)—Max Schmeling doesn't seem to be unduly excited about his heavyweight title bout with Joe Louis a week from tonight. In fact he tries to pretend he isn't even sure when it will take place.

Talking with a group of newspapermen yesterday, Max remarked, as if recalling some unimportant engagement, "The fight falls on a Wednesday, doesn't it?"

Yankees Have Counterpart Of Moore In Johnny Murphy

NEW YORK—(AP)—Back a decade ago when the New York Yankees romped through to two straight American league championships and then swept the world series of 1927 and 1928 from the Pittsburgh Pirates and the St. Louis Cardinals in eight straight games, they had listed on their roster Wilcy Moore, the game's greatest relief pitcher of the era.

In 1927 Moore worked in 50 games and the following year he hurled in 55 contests. His combined record for those two campaigns was 23 victories against 13 defeats. But more important than that was the unremovable games he saved for other Yankee pitchers.

As the Yanks climbed to within one-half games of the Cleveland Indians for the league lead today, and justified their position as favorite in the current pennant chase, they could offer a counterpart of Moore in Johnny Murphy.

Murphy, who longs to be a starting pitcher but must be content with relief jobs because Manager Joe McCarthy says "he's too valuable to turn into a starting hurler," put on his "fireman's act" again yesterday as the Yanks downed Chicago 7 to 4.

Murphy worked 3 1-3 innings after Spurgeon Chandler fell into trouble and did not give the White Sox a hit.

While the Yanks were winning Cleveland dropped its fifth straigh contest, this time by a 7 to 6 count to Washington.

In the other American league games, Boston won from St. Louis 5 to 3, and Philadelphia downed Detroit 8 to 2.

In the National league the New York Giants conquered Pittsburgh, 5-3, as Hal Schumacher won his sixth victory. Mel Ott, with homer No. 13 and a timely single, led the Giants' attack to beat Russ Bauers.

Tex Carleton scored his seventh victory in pitching the Chicago Cubs to a 5-2 victory over the Boston Bees. The St. Louis Cardinals moved into sixth place with a 4-3 victory over the Phillies. Curt Davis held his former teammates to seven hits.

BUD PITTMAN ALLOWS FIVE HITS IN 4-2 WIN

But Pittman rolled up 10 strikeouts as he permitted only four hits while hurling the John Park Juniors to a 4 to 2 softball victory over the Liberty Park Juniors on the losers' field yesterday. Pittman also led the attack for his team with a double and single. Bob Brown hit a triple for the Johns team.

Allow Us to Present Mr. Kenneth Keltner, The American League's Rookie Sensation

By DILLON GRAHAM
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

THE Cleveland hitters were having a gosh-awful time the other day swishing their bats fruitlessly through the air as a dipsy knuckle-ball fluttered crazily past.

But Kid Keltner wasn't fluttered. He got his "4 for 2" against the twirler.

"Trouble with those guys (meaning Trosky, Averill and the other Indians)," Keltner explained, "is they're trying to lay back and sock one.

"That knuckler breaks right in front of the plate. You gotta step up front in the batters' box and crack it before it starts to flutter." The kid's pretty smart, already.

He's so smart and good that he's grabbed Cleveland's third base job.

He's the rookie sensation of the junior circuit.

Furthermore, he is just about the No. 1 reason why the Indians are striking a speedy stride in the pennant race.

Kid Ken Keltner, the 21-year-old Milwaukee boy, is one of the leaders in runs batted in, hitting and home runs.

Third Year As Player.

He is six feet tall, weights 180 pounds, has brown eyes and a brown pompadour and wears a curious expression around his mouth, as though he were puckering up his lips to whistle.

Two years ago he broke in as a fence buster at Fieldale, Va., in the Bi-State league. Last season he bruised the ball for Milwaukee. He tied for the home-run leadership both seasons with 33 at Fieldale and 29 at Milwaukee.

He puts on weight as quickly as a fellow sitting around a beer pub. The kid weighed 200 when he reported to Cleveland's spring-training camp and Big Chief Oscar Vitt of the Tribe fox-trotted into an Indian war dance.

"I calmed him. I knew I could shake those pounds as quickly as I put them on," Ken said.

Keltner wouldn't have given a silver dollar for his chances of sticking with the Indians when he went to camp. "But Sammy Hale had his tonsils yanked and the other guys didn't look so hot, so I went to work."

He quit school shortly after the grammar grades.

'I'm Pretty Smart.'

"If I wasn't playing baseball I guess I'd be digging ditches," he said, quickly adding: "But I'm not dumb. I'm pretty smart."

He has no desire for further education. Says he doesn't need it in his business. He spent three years in a trade school learning cabinet-making.

He comes from Milwaukee's German colony but prefers spaghetti to sauerkraut . . . likes beer . . . smokes half a package of cigarets a day and an occasional cigar . . . is unmarried, but has a "steady" and some high hopes . . . likes movies butdislikes the theater . . . devours sport pages, but never reads the front page . . . isn't interested in national or foreign news . . . "to hell with that stuff" he says. . . .

The chief difference he finds between the majors and minors is that it costs more to live in the top leagues. "You're a heel if you don't tip well and often. Everywhere you turn, it's money," he says.

He doesn't think the big-league players are much smarter, except the pitchers. "In the minors you face a good pitcher only about once a week; up here you get one every day."

Th Indians think they found a gem in Ken.

This Is Kenneth Keltner of Cleveland.

This is Keltner's batting grip.

Allen Had Temper In Bush League, Too

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

JOHNNY ALLEN did not develop the temper that has caused him considerable embarrassment since he advanced to the major leagues. Frank McDonough, who treks the middle garden for Fremon's Ohio State league club, knows of a couple of incidents involving the fiery Cleveland hurler when he was in the bush leagues.

John Allen

When Allen was with Jersey City, McDonough was bat boy for the Skeeters, and he tells this story about one of Johnny's outbursts:

Allen was on the mound the day that a rookie catcher got his first chance with Jersey City. During the first few innings, the opposing team hammered the lantern-jawed twirler freely. Allen, madder than a wet hornet, took out his feelings on the new catcher. He threw them high, wide and low—any way to make the lad look bad. After the contest, he sought to add a finishing touch by expressing his not-too-complimentary opinion of the catcher. That was where he made his mistake, however. The youthful receiver hauled off and clouted Mr. Allen right between the eyes, putting him to sleep, and manufacturing two of the darkest eyes ever obtained through artificial means.

Before leaving Mansfield high school, John Linta, Coach Harry Mehock's pole vaulting star, hopes to better the national high school record. It was recently set by Baylor Maynard of Belmont, Cal., who was recorded with a leap of 13 feet, 9¼ inches. Linta has bettered 13 feet on several occasions, and, with another year of competition ahead of him, Mehock believes his protege will threaten the record, if not break it.

Baugh'll Take Football to Baseball Any Day.

SAMMY BAUGH, apparently, knows on which side his bread is buttered. After failing to make the grade with both the Cardinals and Columbus, the pro grid star said: "I'll take football . . . there is more satisfaction and thrill in one five-yard gain against the Bears or Giants than in any baseball game I've ever been in."

Open Champ Shoots Even Par on St. Louis Course.

ST. LOUIS—(U.P.)—Ralph Guldahl, National Open champion, led the field into the second round of the Western Open Golf tournament today after shooting a par 71 for the first 18 holes.

Guldahl, seeking his third straight western title, had a 37, two over par, going out and scored a 34 on the back nine to bring him a stroke ahead of five other professionals.

Sammy Snead, of West Virginia, Paul Runyon, of White Plains, N. Y., Tony Penna, of Dayton, Floyd Farley of Oklahoma City and Ray Mangrum of Dayton, were tied for second place with 72's.

Pack Shirts With Trophy

By HENRY McLEMORE

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Flotsam and jetsam from today's sport tide: One of our scouts saw Charley Yates of Atlanta, winner of the British amateur golf championship, as he underwent customs inspection upon his arrival from Europe yesterday. . . . The customs inspector demanded to know what was in the big walnut chest Charley was carrying, and opened it . . . Inside was the British amateur cup, one of golf's most sacred trophies, and it was packed with dirty shirts, ties, an assortment of socks and a soft hat . . . Charley said the cup never was going to get out of his sight, which, if true, means that Charley is going to have to curl up his long legs and sleep in the trophy case of the East Lake Country club in Atlanta.

The conservatives will be glad to know that Joe Louis has joined them . . . Before their first meeting, Joe predicted he would knockout Max Schmeling in one round . . . Now, with the memory of the terrible licking still fresh in his memory, he says it will take him all of two rounds to dispose of the challenger . . . Schmeling is equally as confident as Louis, and tells one and all that he will punch the champion stiffer than a Nazi salute . . . Personally, I won't take any fighter's prediction seriously until he agrees to step into the ring on a winner-take-all basis.

Vitt Announces Midnight Curfew for Faltering Tribe

Cleveland Pilot Threatens Players With $100 Fine for Each Violation After 5th Straight Loss.

CLEVELAND—Manager Oscar Vitt, beset by an acute case of pitcher trouble, invoked old fashioned discipline today in an effort to keep his Cleveland Indians at the top of the American league.

Washington administered a 7-6 shellacking to the Tribe yesterday, boosting to five the Indians' consecutive defeats. It reduced Cleveland's lead over the New York Yankees to half a game.

Then Ol' Os' announced a midnight curfew for Cleveland players until further notice, with a $100 fine for each violation thereof.

It was a "change of pace" for Vitt, who early in the season admonished the Redskins only to "take care of yourselves, get plenty of sleep and use common sense about eating and drinking."

Fails In Debut.

Freshman Johnny Humphries failed to stem the Senators in his debut as a starting pitcher. Washington staged a four-run jamboree, including two homers, in the fifth frame and sent Humphries to the showers.

Vitt

Vitt had started Humphries because his recognized big guns, Mel Harder, Bob Feller, Johnny Allen and Earl Whitehill, had crumpled in the pinches.

"It doesn't make much difference whom we start," observed Vitt. "We haven't had a well pitched game in several months. I may give Bill Zuber a chance to start today, or it may be Whitehill."

"Humphries had plenty on the ball," Vitt said, "but was handicapped by poor control and loose defensive play."

Wobbly defensive play was the answer to yesterday's loss. The Tribe infield committed four costly errors and two of the misplays by Sammy Hale in the seventh gave Washington its winning margin.

Humphries was knocked from the hill in the fifth inning after he had walked six men and given up six hits. The blows that sent him to the showers were successive home runs by Goose Goslin and Cecil Travis.

After Humphries departed Al Milnar, Mel Harder and Johnny Allen were sent to the mound in a desperate effort to put the game on the winning side of the ledger. They might have been successful except for Hale's errors.

Washington scored twice in the second inning, added four in the fifth and its final counter in the seventh.

Jimmy Deshong started on the mound for Washington and worked 8⅓ innings. He was removed for Elon Hogsett, a southpaw, when the Tribe's left-handed power was coming to the plate in the ninth.

Wobbly at Start.

Deshong was off to a wobbly start, giving up one run in the second and three in the third, but then settled down until the seventh when Cleveland scored two more runs.

The Indians garnered only eight hits, but five of those were for extra bases. Earl Averill and Bruce Campbell hit home runs and Lyn Lary, Ken Keltner and Jeff Heath smashed out doubles.

Legion Plays Loop Leader Next Sunday

Invades Newark for Tilt With Undefeated Club.

The toughest test of the year confronts Dewey Durant and his American Legion club Sunday when they go to Newark for a Central Ohio league game.

Newark is the undefeated leader of the strong semi-pro circuit, and it has not shown any signs of a letdown at this stage of the season.

Game In Front.

Newark pulled out in front of its nearest competitor by a full game Sunday as it wheeled its heavy artillery into action in the late stanzas to club out a 10 to 8 victory over New Philadelphia.

The game was a see-saw affair in the early innings, but the Phillies pulled into a 7 to 4 lead and looked like a winner until Newark regained its hitting eye, featured by a home run off the bat of Glenn Mills in the seventh that cleared the distant center field fence.

The victory was the fifth for the Newark outfit, which found Everett for 14 hits. Everett is the same hurler who recently stopped the Legionnaires at the Fairground.

Durant's team will return to the Fairground a week from Sunday when it meets the Federal Glassmen of Columbus in the Boosters' Day game, which was called off last Sunday because of wet grounds.

Hold Fairground.

The Fairground will be taken over Sunday by the state-wide drum corp competition to be conducted by the McVey post.

STOCK DEALERS DERIVE CHEER FROM REPORTS

Comforted by Mid-Week Business Statistics, Prospects of Quick Adjournment.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Wall street derived comfort today from a little mid-week business statistics, and the prospect of a quick adjournment of congress, removing legislature uncertainties.

The market had unusually large collection of overnight news developments to absorb. In addition to the foreign situation, particularly the new rush for gold at London, attention centered on the weekly review of the steel industry by "Iron age" which found steel makers in a more "cheerful position" due to a slight increase in business which bolstered hopes that buying would be resumed on a broader scale shortly. The publication warned however, that "evidence pointing to any considerable runup in steel mill operations this summer is scanty."

MUSKINGUM TRIP OFF

WASHINGTON —(UP)— President Roosevelt has decided tentatively against extending his visit to Ohio next month to include an inspection tour of the Muskingum conservancy project it was learned today.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food does not digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25c. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

SEEK ACQUITTAL IN HARLAN COAL 'CONSPIRACY'

Operators of Mines Attack Indictments in Test of Intrastate Laws.

(By United Press)

LONDON, Ky.—Harlan county mine operators contended today that the federal government had transgressed its jurisdiction in its attempt to fine and imprison them for conspiracy to violate the Wagner Labor Relations act.

Some of them stood on their constitutional rights and declined to testify. Others swore that they lost control of their coal as soon as it was ripped out of the rich Harlan vein and placed aboard railroad cars at the mouths of the mines. What all of them were attempting to prove was that the governmet had indicted them on an intrastate matter and therefore should be thrown out of court.

New Question Arises.

Testimony veered abruptly away from alleged violence, kidnaping and murder toward a discussion of just when coal moves into the stream of national commence. For its witnesses, the government was forced to depend upon officials of corporations that are under indictment here in the trial of 19 coal companies and 44 persons on charges of conspiring to violate the Wagner act.

The government had planned to close its case yesterday but the defense suddenly decided it would make department justice lawyers prove that every one of the 19 corporations involved was engaged in interstate commerce rather than stipulating that Harlan Coal crossed state lines while it sull was their property.

Only one company so far—the Blue Diamond Coal company, has admitted that it engaged in interstate commerce. Others have chosen to resist, and the first one was the Clover Fork Coal Company. A. F. Whitfield, jr., secretary-treasurer who is not a defendant, contended that he had no control over his fuel after it was loaded on cars of the Louisville and Nashville railroad. He sold it, he said, to a wholesale distributor who might or might not have taken it out of Kentucky.

FRANCE DENIES LINDY THREATS

Police Agency Say Famous Flier Didn't Get Letters.

PARIS—(INS)—The French Surete Nationale, government police agency, today flatly denied as a "canard" reports that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has received threatening letters at his home off the Britany coast.

The reports, charged that the letters had come from the United States from persons declaring Bruno Richard Hauptmann to have been innocent of the kidnap-murder of Lindbergh's baby.

It was pointed out that Col. Lindbergh arrived in France less than a week ago. Even the fastest boat sailings would not have enabled such letters to reach him in France by the time the rumors first began to circulate.

FACES CHARGE

Crawford Youth Accused of Manslaughter In Traffic death

BUCYRUS — Virgil Stoltz, 20, east of Bucyrus, was held in the Crawford county jail today to await hearing on a second degree manslaughter charge filed by Charles Althouse, also of near Bucyrus. Arrested yesterday by Sheriff Albert French, Stoltz will appear in Justice J. M. Kaylor's court.

The affidavit charges Stoltz with responsibility in the death of Althouse's wife in an automobile collision near Bucyrus Sept. 16, 1937.

CHANGES PLEA

Produce Dealer Admits Assault, Pays Fine of $25 And Costs.

Changing his plea to guilty to an indictment charging assault and battery, Myer Abramson, Mansfield produce dealer, was fined $100 and costs by Judge C. H. Huston in common pleas court yesterday. Judge Huston suspended $75 of the fine. Abramson paid the remainder.

Abramson, who was indicted by the April grand jury for striking Frank Jamison, Mansfield, previously had pleaded innocent to the charge and his trial had been set for today.

STUDIES PLAN TAXING FUTURE

House Gets Relief Proposal Furnishing Rural Counties Funds They Won't Need.

where it is needed, and $7,000,000 would go to rural counties which admit they do not need it. The $14,000,000 would, be further reduced by interest payments on anticipatory notes.

Funds would be allocated on this basis: one third according to population; one third on proportional county tax duplicates; and one third on the proportional combined municipal tax duplicates of a county.

Speaker Uible conceded that most cities would not receive enough for their needs and for that reason enactment of the legislation for issuance of bonds against delinquent taxes will be urged.

The committee also drafted a compromise administration bill creating the office of a state relief director at a $400-a-month salary with authority to withhold funds from non-complying counties. In other respects it is similar to previous administration bills, including a clause barring from relief rolls aliens who entered the country illegally.

In the senate another caucus was called for adjustments in a program built around proposed legislation requiring subdivisions to issue bonds against delinquent tax collections and extending through 1940 only the .65 per cent utilities tax and the beverage and admissions taxes.

Other points in the plan are:

1. A compromise administration bill.

2. Authorization for counties to issue anticipator two-year notes against anticipated liquor permit fees, designed to aid those localities where the delinquent tax legislation will not be effective.

3. Authorization for issuance of bonds by a 65 per cent vote to finance work projects in cooperation with the federal government.

4. Authorizing subdivisions which do not administer relief to transfer relief balances to subdivisions charged with administration.

State Civil Service Worker Tells of Campaign Collections.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — A woman civil service employe's testimony that she was required to make a "campaign" contribution to save her state job was before Common Pleas Judge Henry L. Scarlett today.

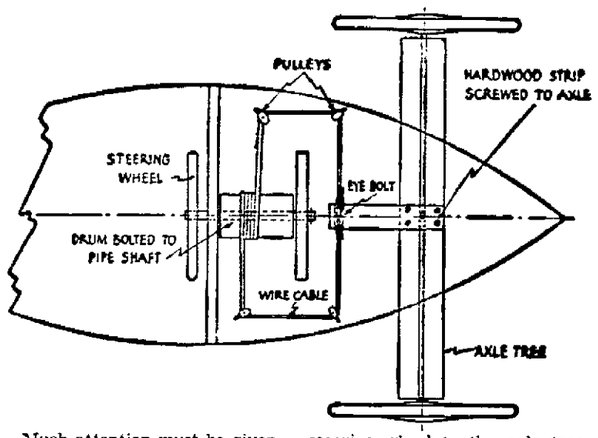
Miss Gertrude Kenney, an employe of the gasoline tax division, said she was asked a year ago by C. O. Wilson to contribute $64. She testified during a hearing of a suit by C. Elbert Black to regain his position as head of the division. Wilson succeeded Black.

"He (Wilson) asked if I wouldn't pay that to save my job and I said 'Yes, I would'," Miss Kenney related.

COTTON BOLL HAS 7 LOCKS

MESILLA PARK, N. M. (AP) — Charles P. Field raised what he termed as an unusual boll of cotton on his farm here. The boll has seven locks instead of the usual four or five. Most valley cotton is five-lock, according to County Farm Agent R. Foster.

Helpful Hints For Derby Racer Builders



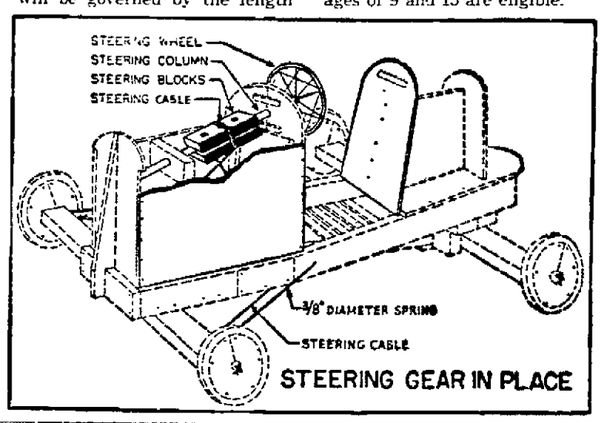
Much attention must be given to the design and construction of the steering assembly of the homemade coasting cars to compete in The News-Journal Soap Box Derby late in July.

The outcome of many a close race depends on safe and sure control of the car. One steering idea for the more skillful builder is pictured at the top. The front axle tree rotates on a center bolt and the rotation is controlled by a wooden tongue or tiller. This tongue should be of one-inch hardwood, four inches wide and 12 inches long.

This tongue may be securely fastened to the axle tree with bolts or screws. The degree of "turn" transferred from the steering wheel to the axle tree will be governed by the length of the tongue; the shorter the tongue, the greater the "turn." The length of the tongue must be adjusted to the design of the car, and also will depend on the amount of "play" desired in the steering wheel.

The steering assembly at the bottom illustrates a method of "positive steering." The ⅜-inch springs are fastened to the body frame and to each end of the axle tree. The front axle is always pulled back to a positive position after it has been turned. This makes it easier to steer the racer and keeps the wheels in a "positive position."

Registrations for The News-Journal Derby may be made at the Y. M. C. A. and Mohican Chevrolet company, co-sponsors of the event. Boys between the ages of 9 and 15 are eligible.



WAGE LAW SENT TO WHITE HOUSE

Provisions of Bill Applying to 2,250,000 U. S. Workers Explained in Detail.

will not create unemployment.

The act establishes a maximum work week of 44 hours for the first year, 42 hours for the second and 40 thereafter, with time and a half pay for overtime. Workers in seasonal industries, which do not operate more than 14 weeks a year, may be employed for 56 hours a week before being paid overtime.

Senator Bailey (D., N. C.) contended that only those actually engaged in interstate commerce could be included under the bill.

Some specific exemptions to wage and hour provisions are made in the act. These include all "bona fide" executive, administrative, professional or local retailing employes.

Agricultural workers, seamen, aviators, rail employes, street car workers, motor carrier employes, fishing industry employes, workers on small weekly or semi-weekly newspapers, and agricultural and horticultural processors in the area of production are also exempt.

The act would ban the transportation, delivery or sale of goods in interstate commerce by an employer who had violated the wage-hour provisions.

Employers may not discharge or discriminate against an employe who makes a complaint of violation of the law, or who testifies at a wage-hour hearing, or who serves on an industrial committee.

Employers liable for unpaid minimum wages or overtime must pay the workers an additional equal amount as liquidated damages. The law also provides a maximum fine of $10,000, six months in jail or both for violation, although no jail term can be imposed for the first offense.

CIRCUS GOES ON

Striking Teamsters Cripple Train But Show's Loaded On Schedule.

TOLEDO —(AP)— The Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus rolled out of Toledo two hours late today after striking teamsters cut air brake hoses on four special railroad trains.

One hundred teamsters struck in sympathy with a foremen who walked out after a wage dispute. Caterpillar tractors replaced horse teams and the circus loaded on schedule.

MANSFIELDER HAS AUTOGRAPHS OF NEARLY ALL U. S. PRESIDENTS

How a hobby started in childhood carries through to a lifetime of steadily growing interest was disclosed by Alfred M. Colby, Mansfield automobile dealer, at Tuesday's meeting of the Rotary club, held at Westbrook Country club.

Encouraged by his father, a Baptist minister, Colby, as a schoolboy, started collection of autographs of prominent persons and later developed this hobby into collecting autographed letters, manuscripts and historical documents made valuable by their rarity.

In connection with his talk Colby displayed letters bearing the signature of practically all of the presidents of the United States, all of which prior to the presidency of William McKinley, were written in longhand.

He also pointed out that only 30 complete sets of autographs of signers of the Declaration of Independence are in existence, two of these being owned in Cleveland.

In possible support of the theory of evolution Colby added that monkeys are the only animals, aside from man, that have been observed to cultivate hobbies.

Among collections recently displayed by hobbiests in Detroit he noted stamps, coins, rare books, dolls, beads, book plates, signs, spoons, flags, old furniture, labels, old prints, rugs, arrow heads, birds' eggs, door knobs, butterflies, Indian blankets, bells, neckties, match pad covers, clocks, lamps, ship models and snuffboxes.

GIVEN 60 DAYS TO SUBMIT PLAN

Newark News Has Only "Outside Chance" to Resume, Says Official.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—G. H. Butt, special master in bankruptcy today gave the Newark Daily News company 60 days in which to offer a plan for reorganization under section 77-B of the federal bankruptcy act.

Butt ordered all creditors to file their claims against the company before July 14.

"It appears the company has only an outside chance of reorganization," said Robert Newlon, United States commissioner, who represented E. Clark Morrow of Newark, trustee for the company. "There is about $50,000 owed."

HURT WEEK AGO, SUES FOR $1,500

Woman Files Action Against Lucas Autoist as Result of Crash.

An automobile collision last Friday in East Mansfield had resulted today in a $1,550 damage suit filed in common pleas court by Mary Brown, R. D. 4, Mansfield.

Naming Ed. Hagans of Lucas defendant in her action, the plaintiff asks $1,500 personal damages for injuries she received in the crash, and $50 for damage to the car she was driving.

She contends that Hagans was driving at an excessive speed and in a reckless manner when his automobile struck the one she was driving at a street intersection.

PRESS OUSTER

Cleveland Commission Circulates Petitions to Unseat Sheriff.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The Cleveland Crime commission placed in circulation today petitions seeking the ouster of Cuyahoga County Sheriff Martin L. O'Donnell.

The commission formally demanded recently that O'Donnell act to close three suburban gambling establishments. The sheriff subsequently said he relayed the demand to officers of the suburbs where the clubs are located.

HUNTER TO SEEK STATE SIGNS AT SCENE OF CRASH

Mayor Asks Warning Markers Be Erected at Lexington Avenue Entry to City.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter today planned to place before the state highway department a request for the installation of highway markers on Lexington avenue, warning motorists entering the city over Mansfield's "death strip" to slacken their speed.

Hunter said he would ask the state highway department to install signs at Cook road warning motorists to reduce their speed to 35 miles an hour, although that section of the highway is outside the corporation.

He explained that between Cook road and the Thomas hospital, the corporation line runs directly down the center of Lexinton avenue and that motorists entering the city are allowed to travel 45 miles an hour, while motorists going south are still in the city and are required to keep their speed to 35 miles an hour.

Acts on Lutz's Request.

Hunter's action follows a request from Assistant Richland County Prosecutor Harold T. Lutz today, in which he asked the mayor, "in the interest of safety" to personally get behind a movement to obtain markers on the highway.

"Two persons have met death since the first of the year," Lutz wrote, "and it seems to me that the city of Mansfield in co-operation with the county commissioners could make some effort to the state department of highways to erect signs stating the speed limit on that portion of route 42 between Cook road and the city limits."

Miss Ada Kovachy of Cleveland died in the General hospital late Saturday following an accident in which three cars were involved. In March, John Guise, a retired farmer, was instantly killed when struck by a machine while walking along the highway near Cook road. The city has been named defendant in three damage suits totaling $45,000 resulting from an accident a year ago on the same stretch of road.

TIE UP FUNDS OF AUTO UNION

Ousted CIO Officials Draw First Blood In Fight.

DETROIT—(INS)—The five suspended officials of the CIO's United Automobile Workers union drew first blood in their fight against Internation President Homer Martin today by tying up union funds in a local bank.

The union is reputed to have $100,000 in the bank.

One of the five officers suspended by Martin in Washington Monday was George Addes secretary-treasurer of the international union. His signature was necessary to draw funds from the bank, but Martin appointed Delmond Garst to act in his place. A bank official disclosed the bank would refuse to honor Garst's signature.

FLOOD CONTROL CONGRESS SNAG

Adjournment Today Periled as Senate Opens Debate on Controversy.

More than $6,000,000 was tacked onto the $279,000,000 deficiency appropriation measure by the house as blue-clad pages rushed one amendment after another to the clerk's desk. Final action was deferred.

Protest Hasty Action.

Senators Byrnes (D-SC) and Johnson (R-Calif) led what resistance there was to increases in the deficiency appropriations.

"You have voted $1,000,000 here in 13 seconds by the clock," Johnson said of one amendment. "It was done so fast no one had a chance to raise any question about it."

The chamber accepted 237 to 33 a senate resolution for a $500,000 anti-trust inquiry by three senators, three house members, and representatives of the labor, commerce, treasury and justice departments and the federal trade and security commissions.

Republican opponents contended the president rather than congress would dominate the committee.

Shortly before quitting work at 11:45 p. m., the house defeated a proposal to investigate charges of monopoly in the radio industry. The vote was 234 to 101.

In mid-afternoon yesterday, Chairman Wagner (D-NY) of the senate banking committee won White House clearance on legislation to liberalize government loans to railroads, but last-minute developments made it unlikely the measure would pass at this session.

Congressional leaders, however, expressed confidence a bill to create a separate unemployment insurance system for railroad workers would be enacted.

Roosevelt Scores 5 Victories, 5 Losses.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— President Roosevelt scored five major legislative triumphs in the present session of congress and suffered a like number of setbacks, two of them decisive, a survey showed today.

His victories were chalked up on wage-hour, recovery, crop control and naval expansion. In addition, he won a personal triumph in convincing congress that it should kill the highly controversal Ludlow war referendum proposal in the tense days following the Japanese bombing of the U. S. gunboat Panay.

Mr. Roosevelt's setbacks included two outright defeats—on government reorganization and the new tax act. Similarly, congress refused to consider his proposals for seven regional planning agencies, and to take the profits out of war. It also overrode his demands that federal highway aid be halved in the interests of economy.

CHAPTER XXIX

"Damn!" Clay ejaculated under his breath. "Larry, if that fire isn't in the place, it's too near for comfort. I don't like the smell of that smoke, either. Your rags may be silk burning. We'll get the bad news when we turn the corner."

A sharp cry burst from Larry. She caught Clay's arm.

"Oh, it is the mill! It is!"

The road in front of the main gate was filled with a crowd that caused Clay to slow his car.

"Hey mister! You can't drive here!" One of the town's two night police bustled importantly alongside, waving a stick. "Oh, it's you, Mr. Odell!"

"Yes. Please clear the entrance for me."

"Sure!" And the official began the necessary shouting.

"Seems to be mainly smoke," Clay observed, as he halted his car near the office. "Will you wait here for me, dear? I'll come back as soon as I find out what it's like."

"Oh, of course! Please, Clay, be careful. Don't go inside!"

The first fireman Clay encountered was none other than Griff, a long rubber coat pulled on over his white jacket. He had a lantern.

"Oh, hello, Mr. Odell. You just get here?"

"Yes. How bad is this, Layne?"

"Oh, it's practically out. Ever see so much smoke? It sure was tough to wade through."

"Are you sure it's under control?" Clay was seized with a fit of coughing. "Where was it?"

"Started back in the stock room in a lot of silk. Don't see how it happened there. Had to turn in a lot of water, too. Tough."

"You're sure there's no fire in the office?"

"Couldn't be. Plenty of smoke, though. The whole place is a fog."

"No one hurt then . . . "

"No one in the place, except old Withers. He got too much smoke. We stumbled over him on the mill floor, carried him out to the garage. Doc Tompkins was looking after him a while ago. Want to go over and see him? I'll light you . . . lot of puddles around."

"Maybe I'd better look at him."

* * *

The elderly Mr. Withers was lying on an auto robe someone had furnished. His eyes were red and watering, his breathing still slightly labored and spasmodic.

"He's all right," was Doctor Tompkins' answer to Clay's hurried question.

"Hi, Skipper!" Clay leaned over the prostrate man. "What were you trying to do around here? All right, now?"

"I'm all right . . . yes, sir. I was startin' my clock round . . . found smoke . . . fire in the silk stock. I took an extinguisher . . . couldn't get in. Met Mr. Wardlaw in mill . . . said he'd phone the firemen . . . don't remember much . . . had to put papers in safe . . . "

"Mr. Wardlaw was here?" Clay demanded sharply.

"Most all afternoon. In the office."

"I didn't see his car. It's not here. Are you sure?"

"Jeremy didn't wait . . . said he was going to get his wife . . . comin' back later . . . "

Clay leaped up and caught at Griff's arm, drew him aside.

"Come with me," he said in a low voice. "To the office." As they hurried on their way, Clay confided: "The old gentleman had a heart attack not long ago. The excitement might get him . . . if he's here. Hurry."

The smoke in the office was so thick that the rays from Griff's lantern penetrated but a few feet, as the two explorers made their way to Wardlaw's private room gasping and choking.

"Gosh!" Griff managed. "Here he is!"

Clay dropped to the rug beside his uncle. Romulus was in a sprawling little heap beside an overturned chair. There was some papers clutched in his hand. Just in front of him was a small safe, it's door open.

* * *

Clay gathered the inert form in his arms. "Go ahead, Layne. Let's get him out." In the outer air, he drew a long breath and continued his orders. "Car's over there . . . Get Tompkins as quick as you can."

As Griff sprinted on his way, the nearest spectators surged about Clay's path. Excited murmurs arose. "Someone's hurt! It's the old man! It's Wardlaw!"

Clay strode to his car where Larry waited. She was standing up, peering anxiously.

"Are you all right, Clay? Oh, I have been so afraid . . . Clay! Who is hurt?"

"It's Uncle Romulus." Clay laid the small form gently on the ground. Tompkins, with Griff's help, already was shouldering his way through the crowd. He bent over Wardlaw and began a quick examination. "Afraid of his heart," he told Clay tersely. "It's doing pretty well. Shock and smoke . . . Something wrong with his left leg. Bad."

"He fell," Clay explained. "Suppose I rush him home and get him into bed . . . "

"Guess that would be best. Go ahead. I'll get my car and come right along."

"I'll have to drive," Clay told Larry as he lifted Romulus into the car. "Do you mind holding him, if I put him between us?"

"Of course not."

* * *

Nothing more was said until the car turned into the driveway of the house on the hill. Larry never would forget that ride. It was difficult to believe that the man she was holding in her young arms was Romulus Wardlaw. Strange. But above everything else rose the comforting realization that the dim erect figure at the wheel was Clay. The man she loved . . . the man who loved her. She was doing this for him, with him.

"Will you stay, Larry?" asked Clay. "I may need you."

"Of course," she said simply. Wasn't it her place?"

With quiet efficiency, she unlocked the front door with Clay's key. She snapped on the light, mounted the stairs with him.

"Now then," Clay directed, "if you'll go down dear, and let the doctor in. Ask him to come up here. Then wait in the hall."

* * *

It was a queer vigil Larry held in the gloomy lower hall, in complete silence save for the murmur of voices on the floor above and occasional footsteps. She looked at her surroundings with growing curiosity. The dark wood of the lofty stairway, shadowy pictures on the walls. The few pieces of furniture were old-fashioned. This was the house she always had longed to enter when she beheld it through the awed eyes of a child. Only yesterday, you couldn't have paid her to pass its doors. And here she was, now, filled with a peace and contentment she didn't know existed . . .

"Oh!"

She started from her chair at the sudden sound of steps in the rear hall.

"Land sakes!" said Wardlaw's housekeeper. "Larry Layne! What are you doin' in here? Where's Mr. Clay? What . . . "

"He's upstairs, Mrs. Kime. Mr. Wardlaw has been hurt. There was a fire at the mill and . . . "

"Are you foolin'? Why, Jeremy just went there to fetch him. My goodness!" Annie was starting for the stairs when Clay appeared coming down.

"Is that you, Annie? Mr. Wardlaw had a fall at the office. He's fractured two bones in his leg, but the doctor thinks he can take care of him here. Please take some hot water up, if you have some." As Annie vanished he turned to Larry with a smile. "He's going to be all right, dear. He's conscious and disgusted. That means he's better. I'll be able to run you home very shortly."

"But you mustn't leave here Clay. I can go home perfectly well by myself. Honest."

"Don't let me see you try it." He gathered her into his arms and held her closely. "This is really our first minute . . . alone. I still love you."

Larry raised her face to his and their lips met in their first long kiss.

"Love me?" he whispered. "I want to hear it."

"So dearly, Clay. And you must go. I'll wait." Again her lips clung to his.

"Okay. Come over to the dining room a minute. Your lord and master isn't much addicted to strong waters, but he needs a peg to get the smoke out of his throat. I think you could stand one yourself."

"Oh, no. I don't want any."

A moment later, he was nodding to her across the top of a modest jigger.

"To you, Sweetheart! A long and happy life . . . with me."

The smile Larry gave him was sweet, but wistfully weary. I'm so sorry for Mr. Wardlaw . . . so very thankful that he wasn't badly hurt."

"Yes," Clay admitted. "In fact, my dearest, if you ask me . . . it's a pretty kettle of fish."

$45,000 SCHOOL LOAN ORDERED

Board Authorizes Clerk to Borrow Against Future State Allocations.

Meeting in special session yesterday afternoon, the Mansfield board of education authorized Dr. John H. Bristor, clerk, to borrow $45,020 against future allocations from the state school foundation.

The loan was authorized last week by the state department of education, which lacks the cash for the regular quarterly distribution of school funds to the city district.

Dr. Bristor said the loan would boost the school board's general fund debt to approximately $68,000 since half of the loan against the March allocation, or about $23,000, is still unpaid.

Funds obtained through the loan will be used for current operating costs, including teachers' and employes' salaries and maintenance of buildings.

Under the foundation law, the local board must pay interest on its loans, although the board is not responsible for the debts.

Whiting Williams to Be Heard.

WHAT will Whiting Williams say when he comes to Mansfield to speak, tomorrow evening, at the Senior high school auditorium under the joint auspices of Delano lodge, Kiwanis, Rotary, Optimist and Hermit clubs?

This question, now in the minds of many people, should arouse sufficient interest to insure a capacity audience.

Oustanding as a lecturer, author and student of labor relations, Whiting Williams will speak on the subject, "Can Labor, Capital and Government Get Together?"

Just how he will treat this subject—and what conclusions he will reach—are not yet known. It is known, however, that Williams has given many years of intelligent study to matters having to do with the relationship of capital and labor, that he has a mind capable of grasping intricacies of the many problems presented, and that he has left comfortable and lucrative positions to put on overalls and become a journeyman laborer in order to mingle with workers in mines and factories, so that he might be able to fairly and impartially report "What's On the Worker's Mind."

No more important or far-reaching problem is presented in the United States today than that involving the respective obligations of labor, capital and government to contribute to the general welfare.

It will be through reading, study, and listening to such thought-provoking discussions as may be expected from Whiting Williams, that better understanding of mutual interests will eventually be reached.

Unentangling Alliances.

THE United States holds aloof from military alliance with any part of Europe, but it has never, and does not now, withhold informal co-operation. Moreover, the roots of many European situations are found in America.

The movement for Czechoslovakian independence was developed here. Its great leader, the republic's first president, Masaryk, was married to an American wife. A large group of American Slovaks are in that country today pleading for greater freedom for Slovaks within the republic.

Much of the preparatory work for Irish independence was carried on in this country. Prime Minister De Valera of the Irish Free State was born in New York. His movement was largely financed in this country.

President Smetona of Lithuania was once employed in a law office in America.

Several million Americans of Polish stock were active supporters of Paderewski when he battled for Polish freedom.

Never a member of the League of Nations, the United States has nevertheless had representatives on various League commissions. An American served as its high commissioner to deal with German refugees. The United States is a member of the international labor organization. An American sits on the World Court bench. There is an official American observer at League sessions.

"Isolation" as applied to this country's relations with the rest of the world is obviously a very relative term with a special definition.

Capable Postmaster Re-appointed.

RE-APPOINTMENT of Herman E. Homberger as Mansfield postmaster for a second four-year term will be quite generally approved by those who know Mr. Homberger and who have had opportunity to observe the capable and conscientious manner in which he has been performing the duties of his office.

While there is apparent justification for the contention that postoffice department appointments should not be influenced by politics and that postmasters should be under civil service regulations as to tenure in office, the present instance is one in which no hardship is worked by the method of appointment, as Postmaster Homberger has the qualifications and previous experience which make him well fitted for the office.

Native of Mansfield, active in the Democratic party, twice honored by election as Richland county treasurer, Mr. Homberger has been prominently identified with business, politics and civic affairs in this community.

There would be much less reason for adverse criticism of politics if it developed more public office holders of the caliber of Herman Homberger.

Those Saved From Drowning.

THE OTHER DAY Patrolman W. G. Neumann of New York City saved a man from drowning and chalked up his thirtieth such rescue. It seems to be a habit of long standing, for fifteen of Neumann's rescues were made before he joined the marine division of the police force.

Neumann has five departmental awards for bravery because, in some cases, the life-saving called for courage along with quick-thinking, good sense and skill.

Probably more people are saved from drowning than are drowned, just as more people avoid automobile accidents than take part in them. Most of the time the rescues and escapes from disaster are so much a matter of habit and so much less spectacular than the sudden deaths that little attention is paid to them. It is well to note them occasionally.

Trailer Sanitation Considered.

THE National Association of Master Plumbers in their recent convention demanded that trailer camps be made sanitary. The danger of communicable disease spreading from community to community has been greatly increased by the growing use of trailers, they said.

Every new invention brings its own problems. The moving homes dragged around by automobiles all over the country, stopping hither and yon without let or hindrance, are becoming the cause of many difficulties. Either the trailer fad will die out before long even as the toy golf games of yesteryear, or the trailer will take its place as a serious element in modern life. In any case, sanitary legislation is needed.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

MUCH has been said of President Roosevelt fighting to have New Deal senators and representatives returned and antis defeated. The fact is, he has to fight—or see the remainder of his term as a period of frustration. The opposition doesn't hesitate to fight—or to pour money into states where New Dealers are running, all the while insinuating that the administration is using WPA money for ulterior purposes.

The New Deal stands in danger of being nullified even before the president leaves office. The tax bill was a case in point. Anti-New Dealers, under heavy business pressure, and under the guidance of Senator Pat Harrison jettisoned much of President Roosevelt's tax reforms. There are persons who did not consider the reforms as reforms but that is beside the point. The New Deal type of taxation was jettisoned.

There are many other measures of which the public hears little or nothing, but against which there are powerful lobbies. The pure food and drug bill is one. Ever since the president entered office, he has tried to obtain a pure food bill that really would enforce. He has been unable to obtain one.

He has been frustrated in scores of New Deal attempts. The first defeat, which was ominous for the New Deal, was about a year after the president entered office—on the St. Lawrence waterway and power treaty with Canada. Two forces won out on this—the power interests and New York-New-Jersey shipping interests.

Of more recent memory are government departmental reorganization, supreme court "revitalization," even wages and hours.

* * *

CHANGE PARTIES?

Possibly, prior to the end of his day, the president will have to change parties—join some group more liberal than the old-line Democrats. The La Follettes have been saying this.

Nobody would demur at this more than the president. But the old-line Democrats simply will not follow. Worse, they jettison, or fight outright.

And they will be happy to jettison F. D. R. himself in 1940—if they can.

But can they win without an F. D. R. and his followers? The Democrats never have been able to win except with a "people's man." The other type of voters will not change from the tried and true conservatives (or reactionaries, as their opponents term them)—the Republicans.

* * *

NO SNAP FOR G. O. P.

The Republicans themselves, however are in for a time of it.

Herbert Hoover must definitely be looked upon once more as a candidate for the Republican nomination.

Alf Landon is opposing him—not as a possible candidate (in view of the last election figures) but as a leader of a more liberal group.

But even Alf Landon's group is not considered liberal enough by some Republicans—the Nye-Borah coalition. The Nye-Borah group are far to the left of most of the southern Democrats.

Just where does Senator Vandenberg of Michigan fit in with these contending forces? Well, nowhere. He will have to find a group for himself.

Thus, no brotherly love is being wasted among the Republicans either.

It might be an excellent time for a third party with a real program. At least such is the thought of the La Follettes

No Coalition of Parties Probable

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — Republicanism is not getting into the 1938 congressional campaign on the basis of as close a partnership with anti-New Deal Democrats as seemed likely as recently as only a few weeks ago.

There was talk then of an out-and-out coalition.

Old Guard Republicans and the folk known as Bourbon Democrats did not, after all, formerly have so very much in common. Both groups were conservative but they were different kinds of conservatives. They still are. They are, indeed, agreed in opposing the New Deal. For a while it looked as if they might unite on that issue. When it comes to a showdown, however, they fail to display much cohesion.

* * *

THE LINEUP

The Bourbon Democrats do not want to become Republicans. They want to wrest control of the Democratic party from the New Dealers' hands, and to be recognized AS the Democratic party, leaving the New Dealers as no party in particular.

The Republicans do not want to lose their partisan integrity. They will be glad to welcome seceding Democrats into their fold, but they want them to come in as converts to Republicanism.

The fight, then, evidently will be:

1. Between Democrats and Democrats, in the nominating primaries.

2. Between Democrats and Republicans on election day.

* * *

REPUBLICANS SOLID?

The Republicans will be solid enough.

The Democrats will be split.

Candidates wearing Democratic labels will win on election day.

The Republicans cannot possibly gain a senate majority; not enough senate seats are at stake to give them one. Theoretically they can gain a representatorial majority, but such an overturn this year is, practically, unimaginable.

What the Republicans hope for is a chance in 1940.

* * *

TO STYMY NEW DEAL?

If the G. O. P. materially improves its congressional position (though still in a minority) for the ensuing two years and if the anti-New Deal Democrats at least retain their present congressional strength, between them they will have the New Dealers stymied until the next campaign.

And a stymied, impotent administration cannot win any credit for itself while it remains that way.

Times certainly cannot improve under such circumstances.

The administration will have nothing to point back with pride to.

* * *

THEIR VIEW?

I do not mean to imply that the G. O. P. looks optimistically toward two more years of hard times to bring it back into power.

Nevertheless, if we DO have two more years of hard times, it wants to be able to say, after that, if it returns to power, and times DO improve, that the G. O. P.. improved them—all by the G. O. P.'s own self, without any help from a lot of seceding Democrats.

Politicians look ahead that way.

They may expect to die in the meantime; thus not benefiting by their reasoning, but actually they are honest.

USELESS COMMISSION

Changing the subject, here is an odd thing:

It is contended that the government's "independent offices" ought to be reorganized—and some of them abolished, as superfluous.

Well, included in the war department is the California Debris Commission. It dates back to the time of the San Francisco earthquake and fire, when, for a while, undoubtedly, there was some debris to be disposed of.

If that debris hasn't been attended to yet, when will it be?

Readers Forum

Observed at Ahepa Parade.

Editor News-Journal:

One thing I noticed in connection with the Ahepa parade Sunday afternoon I believe the citizens of Mansfield, particularly men, should profit by.

As the flags passed, Greek men on the sidewalks watching the parade, removed their hats. Very few American men did.

This act of reverence and respect for the national colors is worthy of emulation by all American men It helps to keep alive the spirit of loyalty and patriotism which is so likely to reach a low ebb in times of peace. Of course the men who failed to doff their hats intended no disrespect for the flag of their country. It was either due to thoughtlessness, or ignorance of what is proper when the flag passes in parades

I noted, also, that wherever the national emblem of Greece was flown, there also were the Stars and Stripes, evidence of the loyalty of the visitors to the United States and their ideals.

If the attitude of the visitors has taught us to have greater respect for "Old Glory," their coming has indeed been worth while.

Health Advice

Keep Healthy by Relaxing Regularly.

—By DR. ROYAL COPELAND

RECENTLY I had dinner with an eminent lawyer. During the course of the conversation he confessed his envy of anyone who can relax and enjoy some hobby or pastime. For years, he said, he had tried unsuccessfully to develop the art of play. My friend expressed the belief that his general health would be better if he could rid himself at times of the tension of a busy life.

There is no doubt he is right. The lack of a hobby or some form of relaxation is really a calamity for the indoor man or woman. I sometimes wonder if this is not a variety of selfishness. Perhaps we secretly or unknowingly enjoy hard work and on that account hate the thought of relaxation.

Should Learn Early.

Lack of such enjoyment can be traced sometimes to the failure of learning to play in early adult life. Most psychologists and nerve experts agree that the development of a hobby in early life is a valuable asset; it is money in the book of health. Anyhow, it guards against the common disorders and complaints of middle age.

Since the exercise of hobbies aids in physical and mental relaxation, they should be encouraged. Every child should be guided and helped in the development of a useful hobby.

There is no doubt of the value of adequate rest and daily relaxation. This is well confirmed by the fact that the individuals who acquire a hobby and learn at an early age how to relax, rarely suffer from such disorders as high blood pressure, nervousness, heart disease and other factors that tend to shorten the span of life. These disturbances are the bane of middle age, and often interfere with the joy of life.

Need of Vacation.

As a preventive measure, physicians always have advised the need of a vacation. But annual vacations in themselves are not sufficient. The marked tension and pressure of modern vicilization are sure to take their toll unless there are regular periods of play and rest, no matter how short the time devoted to them.

Prolonged vacations are desirable, of course, if one can afford them. They help to guard against disease. But it is too bad to resort to a vacation merely because of sheer exhaustion. It is far better to guard against this exhaustion.

The art of relaxation cannot be acquired overnight. Some persons are born with this art, but many others must acquire it. Constant tension and nerve energy are fatiguing factors that lead to poor health.

Uncle Sam, Job Giver.

Is it up to the government to provide men with jobs in times of unemployment?

That question, among others, was recently asked 13,528 boys and girls between the ages of 16 and 24. An overwhelming majority answered it in the affirmative. In fact, the boys and girls were surer in their own minds about this than about any other questions on the list.

Suppose that same question had been asked a similar group of boys and girls 10, 20 or 30 years ago. Would these groups in the 1900's, the 1910's and the 1920's have given the same answer? Of course not. In those "benighted" days the benefits of CCC camps and the WPA projects were not known. In those days problems of unemployment were the individual's and every individual knew it. And that's one reason so many people got along.—Milwaukee Journal.

Who's to Blame If the Light Goes Out?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

YOU HAVE NEVER SEEN.

Perhaps that's a new idea to you—and a startling one. Yet it is true. Actually, literally, you have never seen a single object in this amazing world . . . neither moss-covered rock nor foam-spangled wave nor face of the one you love.

OF ALL THE SHINING WONDER, YOU HAVE SEEN ONLY A REFLECTED IMAGE WITHIN YOUR OWN BRAIN. And even that is a blurred, distorted reflection if your eyes are imperfect.

Startling, isn't it? But there's a still more disconcerting fact. Even though the mechanism of your eyes be perfect . . . even though it records every slightest detail of the thing before you . . . still, at the best, you are partially blind, catching only a fragment of the full reality. For "sight" isn't only a matter of optic nerves—it involves also the mind.

AND UNLESS YOU "SEE" WITH YOUR EMOTIONS AND YOUR IMAGINATION, AS WELL AS YOUR EYES, YOU WILL GO GROPING ALL YOUR DAYS.

Rafael Sabatini, historical novelist, has a phrase for it. Speaking of Gregory Orloff, that magnificent but doltish male who caught the Empress Catherine's light fancy, he said:

"HE SAW WHAT HE SAW BUT NEVER WHAT IT MEANT."

Chew that phrase carefully, for it applies as well to you and me as to the dim-witted Orloff. And it exposes, with brutal brevity, the cause of much of our mortal misery.

Why does life, which was such a dancing delight at 10, go so suddenly drab at 30? Why does our eagerness change to indifference . . . our courage crumble beneath a growing sense of futility and failure? What demon mocks and cheats us . . . giving us such keen capacity for enjoyment, then snatching away the bright adventure before it can come true . . . leaving us to the long drawn horror of "growing old?"

There is no demon. We have not been cheated. No secret blight has spoiled existence for us . . . drained life of its color and drama . . . robbed us of adventure. The adventure still calls . . . the color still blazes outside each small, dark cell. And life may be as full and rich, as filled with tingling eagerness, at sixteen as it was at six—IF WE WILL HAVE IT SO.

FOR WE OURSELVES ARE TO BLAME IF THE LIGHT GOES OUT.

Life was lovely and mysterious, exciting and adventurous at sixteen, for you were looking for these qualities in it. Your heart and mind, as well as your fresh young eyes, were open to beauty and romance and gallant ventures. You saw not only the outside of things, which may soon become monctonous, but also the ever-changing, ever fascinating and exciting INSIDE of things.

BECAUSE YOU WERE ALWAYS EXPECTING SURPRISES, THE SURPRISES WERE ALWAYS THERE.

And that fresh delight might be with you now—IF YOU WOULD STILL EXPECT IT. Life was never meant to grow drab and desperate. Even the homeless and penniless wanderers remain quick and curious, alert and alive to the end of the trail. So it was intended. So it might be, if we did not allow our vision to become so clouded, by laziness and greed, prejudice, selfishness, convention and conceit, that at last we see only the stale substance of things—but never their throbbing heart.

Stop being bored. Stop being sorry for yourself because "nothing ever happens" to you. Let things happen! You weren't meant to be a mummy.

Open your heart and—Look!

Open your imagination and—Expect!

Open your mind and—Search!

Life is still there—waiting!

GET BUSY! GO SEE IT, YOU DOPE!

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Owen Davis is the most prolific playwright of the century. He's credited with about 300 plays. That's some seven-and-a-half million words.

But alongside Frank and Anne Hummert, Davis is a sluggard who just fritters away his time. The Humberts head an advertising agency and in that capacity, conceive, write, direct and produce 50-odd radio programs. That means something like 75,000 words a week or the equal, in two years, of Davis' lifetime output.

Of course, if you are going to pin us down, the Hummerts don't write every word. They have a staff. But by the time they get through outlining original ideas, editing, revising and polishing, there isn't a word in the scripts that doesn't belong to them.

* * *

THE Greenwich, Conn., estate of this couple is a pleasant enough place if it weren't that the Hummerts keep it humming so. It's a beehive. There's no croquet, badminton, or bridge going on either. It's work. There are half a dozen secretaries and a small battalion of assistant scriptists around.

The Hummerts use the Alexandre Dumas method. They hurry around pushing papers at their hired help, saying: "Develop this." Frank grabs a script from another, scans it, says: "How about doing it this way?" And jots down a whole new scene. Anne grabs a completed first draft and starts rewriting. That sort of thing goes on and on until you get exhausted just watching. But what "that sort of thing" puts in the savings account isn't chicken feed.

Frank is from New Orleans; Anne from Baltimore. Both have done their newspaper stint. . . . Anne on the Paris (France) Herald, where she interviewed and became friendly with such international dignitaries as Queen Mary, the former Prince of Wales, Lloyd George and Premier Daladier.

Did Frank meet some interesting people, too? He grins.

* * *

I DID meet a few, but not exactly the drawing room type like Anne's friends. I rode with the Texas Rangers along the Mexican border for two years. There was, for instance, Bill McDonald, whom President Roosevelt called 'the bravest man in the world'."

"I started reporting at 20. A friend who had a small advertising agency called me in to do some copy-writing and before you could say "Blackett-Sample-Hummert', I was in the business." (That's Frank's firm; he got in the plug before I could stop him.)

"How did I meet Anne? Well, I needed a secretary. Mr. Sample recommended a young newspaperwoman.: I employed her. Her name was Anne Ashenhurst. I never could remember it, so I changed it to Hummert."

Frank smiles across at his charming wife. That may have been how it was, but I doubt it.

The Way It Used To Be.

SOME old codgers seem to think that the young people of 25 or 30 years ago had more fun than the boys and girls of today ever have.

I remember when you called at the home of Your Girl to take her to a party, her mother warned you to have her home by 11 o'clock at the latest . . . and she meant it.

Hayrides were fun, however. You hired a farmer's wagon, a big bunch of you, and he furnished two horses and did the driving. He filled his wagon with straw and 20 boys and girls piled in, giggling and shouting—at first. After a while a boy got one arm around his girl and held her hand, too. . . . It was fun, all right, unless in the scramble you'd got separated from your girl and it was some other fellow who had his arm around her.

They didn't dance to Big Apple then. The "rag" was considered indecent. We still danced the Paul Jones and Virgina Reel. The most glamorous fellow in town was the stranger who played the piano in the motion picture theater where they showed Alkali Ike and John Bunny and Maurice Costello. . . . Dancing wasn't bad fun, but those were the days when a new pair of shoes had to be "broken in" and sometimes that was agony. A fellow danced with a girl and thanked her politely for the pleasure he'd had while all the time his feet were just killing him.

The young fellows dressed up in blue serge suits, high stiff collars with narrow ties, patent leather shoes and "hot socks." . . . The blue serge got shiny before you could afford to buy another suit and there weren't many cleaning establishments in those days, so very often a young blade took the grease spots out with benzine—and smelled something awful all evening.

Saturday was the big night in town, when the band played in the plaza and the stores stayed open until 9 o'clock and you walked round and round the park, the girls arm in arm, the boys in a bunch—in opposite directions—making silly remarks to each other when they met. . . . And it was all very charming except that there were occasions when the pangs of unrequited love made it seem a brutal mockery to many a young fellow.

As I said, some old codgers seem to think they had much more fun in their youth than the young 'uns have today. . . . But I don't think we had a bit more fun than they do now. The favorite remark in Our Gang was, "Gee, there's nothing for a fellow to do in This Old Town," . . . I remember.

CONGRESS OK'S BILL TO PROBE U. S. BUSINESS

Authorizes Committee to Sift Economic Structure, Votes $500,000 Expense Fund.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Paving the way for a searching investigation of the entire business structure of the nation, congress today sent to the White House a resolution authorizing creation of a "temporary national economic committee."

Final congressional action was accomplished shortly before midnight when the house approved the resolution, 237 to 33, despite vigorous Republican attacks.

Famed as the result of President Roosevelt's message to congress on monopolies, the meausre calls for a study of the entire economic structure.

Includes Monetary Probe.

A little-noticed provision, which may revive inflation demands, directs the committee to investigate and report to congress on the proposed "commodity dollar" monetary plan, under which the nation's currency would be based on the average price of commodities instead of on gold.

The economic committee includes three senators, three representatives and one person from each of the following: departments of justice, labor, treasury and commerce; federal trade commission and securities and exchange commission.

The committee will investigate:

1. Causes of alleged concentration of economic power and financial control and their effects upon competition.

2. Effect of the existing price system and the price policies of industry upon consumption.

3. Effect of existing tax, patent and other government policies upon competition, price levels, unemployment, profits and consumption.

4. Governmental adjustment of the purchasing power of the dollar so as to attain 1926 commodity price levels.

Rep. Hancock (R) of New York charged that the anti-monopoly investigation will become a "'political expeditioin."

"Anyone who thinks this is going to be a bona fide investigation into the anti-trust situation is both guileless and simpleminded," said Hancock.

President Roosevelt is expected to take a leading role in directing the inquiry. The resolution provides $500,000 for the inquiry, with the president having power to allocate $400,000 of that amount himself among government agencies.

A Farmer's Diary

By Calvin A. Byers

TWICE every day it happens on the farm . . . the milking.

Through the hotter part of the afternoon the Guernsey cows lie in the shade of a big elm tree along the stream in the lower pasture. But when the sun gets low, they come up the hill and stand by the barnyard gate that leads into their stable.

The farmer goes to the barn and puts a measure of grain at each animal's place. He opens the back barn door and the cows file eagerly into the cool, cemented, whitewashed interior. Each finds her own stall, unhesitatingly. When he has latched the stanchions about their tossing heads, the farmer sprays their backs and flanks with a hand sprayer. The flies are routed, the air is full of insecticide. The dairyman closes the barn and goes into the house for his supper, with the satisfied knowledge that his animals are ready for milking.

The evening meal finished, the farmer reappears. He goes to the milk house and gets two ample pails, sets a ten-gallon milk can upon his wheelbarrow, and goes to the barn. Here, presently, his wife joins him. They take the three-legged milking stools from the rack, wash each cow's udder with an antiseptic solution from a basin on a handy bench—then wash their own hands, and are ready to begin.

The first sounds of milk striking the bottom of the tin pail are sharp and musical—but the rhythmic streams become muffled by foam as the pails fill rapidly, and the white froth climbs to the very top. The odor of warm milk pervades the barn, mingled with the breath of the animals, and the pungence of hay overhead.

The full pails are weighed upon a spring scales and the record of each cow's output recorded upon a chart which hangs upon the wall. Then the pails are emptied through a mammoth strainer into the waiting can.

The barn cats, yellow and black, beg for and get a pan of the warm, frothy fluid. Contented, they stretch themselves and roll about in the straw.

The creamery can is wheeled into the milk house and emersed neck deep in cold water. The farm wife stirs it frequently until the animal heat has disappeared.

After a time, the back barn door is reopened from within, and one by one the golden and white Guernseys slowly emerge. They suck in the warm evening air with contented sighs, and amble off to where the fireflies light the smooth green hills of the pasture.

HOMBERGER JUST MISSES 'SURE' LIFE-TIME POSTMASTER'S JOB

Although Herman E. Homberger, head of the Mansfield postoffice, today was happy over the senate's confirmation of his nomination for re-appointment as postmaster, he was somewhat surprised to learn that he had missed by 24 hours an almost certain chance of keeping the job for life.

Homberger, completing his first term in office today, was reappointed by the senate two days ago. Yesterday the senate by a vote of 57 to 17 adopted a conference report on a bill, giving postmasters life tenure of office. The bill now goes to President Roosevelt for his signature.

While Homberger missed an almost certain chance for the lifetime position yesterday, he may have the same opportunity four years hence should Roosevelt be re-elected to a third term or another Democratic president be elected.

Under the measure passed by the senate yesterday, Homberger would be required to compete in a competitive examination for his re-appointment. Three certifications of persons taking the civil service examination would then go to the president for appointment.

STUDIES PLANS

Committee Considers $15,000 Renovation Program.

SHELBY—Plans calling for expenditure of approximately $15,000 for renovation of the city hall were being studied by a special committee appointed recently by Mayor D. B. Young, Bert Fix, committee chairman, disclosed today.

Although the original plans called for $15,000, Fix stated that if only the ground floor is remodeled the cost could be reduced to $5,000. The committee has both plans under consideration.

If the original plans are approved by the council, the finance director and public welfare clerk offices will be located on the second story where a large hall room would be utilized.

MILLERSBURG—George Snow and Everett Doyle, both of Killbuck, were slightly injured and the car Doyle was driving was badly wrecked in a head-on collision with a car driven by Arthur S. Adams, 30, of Hamilton, Ontario, Canada. The accident occurred here at the intersection of South Washington and South Clay streets Saturday.

At least, he made no attempt to open fire when she smacked him over the head with a broom when he and a companion tried to hold up the florist shop where the girl is employed. Both fled.

Youth Seeks Perfect Girl Friend

By VIRGINIA LEE

LONELY FELLOW is 20, is bashful, not well educated, cannot dance, has little money and no car, as he is out of work at present, poor chap, but seems to have hope of getting something.

He doesn't like the girls he knows—says they get drunk and run about with fellows who have money and cars.

He seems to want me to correct his grammar and get him a girl, and this is his description of the girl he wants for a "steady" friend:

She must be from 18 to 20, tall, weight around 115 or 125 pounds, with light or blond hair, and pretty. One who is affectionate, smokes if she likes but doesn't drink. Must come from a good home, be able to cook and run a home like a good wife. One that will be easy on the pocketbook and invite her boy friend to her home to get acquainted with her parents and who will teach him to dance, and not grudge him anything.

He would prefer a Catholic girl or one willing to become one. One who will "take the shyness out of a fellow and be satisfied with a little education and not brag about herself."

She must be satisfied to go to a show when her boy friend has money and not get mad when he hasn't. He doesn't want a flirt or show off—just "a common, sensible and good looking girl."

I think that is a pretty large order, my dear chap. Do you think a girl as nearly perfect as that will be interested in you—even if I knew one—which I don't?

Make Yourself Worthy.

Why don't you start to prepare yourself to be worthy of such a girl now, while you have leisure? You can overcome your bashfulness by going where people are and making yourself agreeable. You can learn to dance. Surely you know some boy or girl who can teach you, if you haven't money enough to take lessons. You can learn to swim, too. This is just the season to learn. If you start now you'll be quite proficient by autumn.

You see I think you should make yourself a match for this paragon of womanhood you want for a girl friend. I don't know of such a one who is in need of a sweetheart. But don't worry, you'll meet her in time if you keep on striving to improve yourself. You can even improve your education and learn to talk and write correctly if you are interested in doing so. Education is a continual process, Lonely Fellow, and you can get as much of it as you want or are capable of assimilating, by reading, studying and learning from those who have it.

And about the girl: When you fall in love—as you will—you will think she is just as perfect, with all the virtues you say you want your sweetheart to possess. Good luck to you!

There are however, oranges, grapefruit, bananas, apples, although they are not so good this time of year, prunes and canned apricots, peaches and pears, cherries, etc., all make good combinations for salad.

Today's Recipes.

STRAWBERRY AND PINEAPPLE JAM—Three quarts of strawberries, washed and hulled, two pineapples, diced or shredded, four pounds sugar, one orange, one lemon. Use the juice and pulp of the orange and lemon and about half the grated rind of the orange. Put altogether in a saucepan, mix well, and, cook slowly until it is thick.

FRUIT SALAD DRESSING — One tablespoon cornstarch, one-fourth cup sugar, one-third teaspoon salt, one cup pineapple juice, one-fourth cup lemon juice, one-half cup orange juice, three egg yolks, one cup cream. Mix the cornstarch, sugar and salt in top part of double boiler. Stir in pineapple juice to make a smooth paste. Add other fruit juices. Cook over a low heat for several minutes, stirring constantly, until the mixture starts to thicken. Then place over hot water and cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Cook 10 or 15 minutes longer, remove from heat. Add part of the hot mixture to the beaten egg yolks, stirring it in slowly. Return to double boiler and cook two minutes longer. Cool, and just before serving, fold in cream which has been whipped until stiff.

CHOCOLATE BUTTER COOKIES—One cup butter, two and one-third cups sugar, four eggs, one-half pound chocolate, grated, one-half pound almonds, chopped, two to three cups flour. Cream butter thoroughly. Add sugar gradually, creaming it in well. Add eggs one at a time and mix well. Add grated chocolate and chopped almonds. Add flour, enough so dough is stiff enough to roll. Cut with fancy cookie cutters. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees Fahrenheit.

Indian Pudding.

One cocoanut, one-half pound corn meal, one tablespoon anise seeds, one-half pound sugar, one teaspoon salt. Peel and grate the cocoanut and take out one quart of cocoanut milk. Boil milk with salt, anise seeds and sugar. When mixture boils, add corn meal little by little, stirring constantly. Allow mixture to boil one-half hour till it wrinkles on the surface. Pour into dish so it can be cut in pieces.

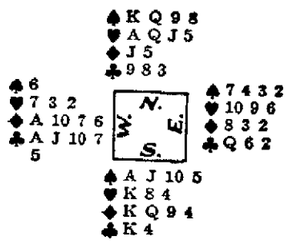
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

NEVER? ALMOST NEVER

It is hard to conceive of a strong hand with which you should not at some stage show a fit with your partner's major suit if you have four cards of it. "Never" is a word which practically never should be used in bridge, but this comes close to being one case.



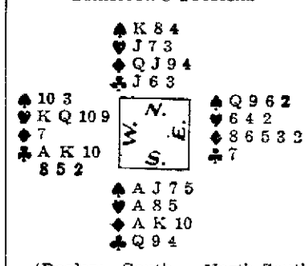
(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

At one table in a duplicate tournament the final bid on this deal reached 6-No Trumps because South failed at any opportunity to show a fit for his partner's suit. Because of his action the hand was set three tricks for a bottom score.

When North opened the bidding with 1-Spade, South bid 2-Diamonds and North then bid 2-Hearts. South's next response was 4-No Trumps. North felt he could not pass this but was in a quandary as to just what his partner's holdings were. If South could not assist spades or hearts, could not bid clubs or rebid the diamonds, he evidently held three cards in each of the majors and could not support four-card suits, had only four diamonds and three clubs, but plenty of honor strength. North to keep it open then bid 5-Diamonds and South jumped to 6-No Trumps. The correct bid on the combined holdings is 4-Spades, but South's bidding prevented their getting into the right contract.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

What is South's best play for 3-No Trumps, South having opened with 1-Diamond and West having doubled. The opening lead was the club 8?

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, June 16.

Judging by this day's sidereal operations, there may be some important matters of a rather strange or intriguing nature to dispose of with shrewdness, intelligence and sagacity. These may be the climax of yesterday's astounding adventures and call for some quick decisions. Delays menace but quick action and wise management may stabilize the future fortunes.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year in which their future success, happiness and stability may depend on wise and shrewd decisions made at this time. There are omens of treachery, intrigue and underhand menaces, in which writings and documents seem involved. Be cautious, alert, shrewd in all affairs of a strange, subtle or disintegrating nature. Shun accident, strife.

A child born on this day may be alert, clever, of fine mentality, although shrewd and quick to grasp the subtle and intangible. It may succeed in original lines or through stratagem and a peculiar resourcefulness. It may attain some public renown.

Smiling in her sleep. Perhaps she'll laugh at that "funny dream" when she wakes up. Or feel puzzled, or even sad.

Why do our dream experiences so often haunt us? Psychologists say it's because dreams express our most secret hopes, fears, and desires.

For example, a dream of flying airily over housetops and treetops may symbolize your relief at having broken an unhappy engagement or resigned from an uncongenial job.

Your ludicrous dream of finding yourself undressed on Main street probably shows you're secretly a bit shy and self-conscious.

That terrifying drop from a high building or the top of a cliff may mean that you fear your security is threatened in some way.

Express trains, wild animals, money, the sun and the moon—dreams have a picture language all their own. Read in our 32-page booklet what a famous psychologist says about the importance of dreams.

Be Careful When Having Hair Dyed

By JULIET SHELBY

(Central Press Writer on Beauty)

The vegetable color rinses, such as pure henna and camomile give more or less temporary brightening and a slight coloring to the hair. But the hair colorings, in the forms of prepared rinses, packs or dyes which contain metallic salts or synthetic organic ingredients, either coat or penetrate the hair and cannot be removed by shampooing. The different types of dyes vary in effectiveness, and naturally have to be reapplied as the hair grows out from the roots.

If you are planning to have your hair dyed be sure to go to a really reliable hairdressing salon. It is absolutely imperative that you have a good competent operator who knows her business well. Nothing is as tragic as hair ruined by improper dyeing.

Needs Extra Care.

Some preparations act favorably on some heads of hair and unfavorably on others. So to be doubly sure, even after you have had your predisposition test, test the dye that is to be used on a small piece of your own hair. Pick a strand where it will not show. It is always wise to take this precaution each time you use a coloring containing a metallic or aniline derivative, as a change in your physical condition may affect its reaction on you. This test strand is also practical because it will give you an exact idea of the color your hair will be after the dyeing. This will give you a chance to decide on a better shade if you do not like the color of the dyed strand.

Of course hair which has been treated with any kind of hair tinting or dyeing needs extra daily attention. A good brushing night and morning after applying a hair tonic will do wonders in keeping your scalp in good condition and the hair lustrous and soft. There are some tonics and hair dressings on the market that will save you time and effort if you are in a hurry in the morning. They can be used directly on the scalp without having to pour them out on a cloth or a piece of cotton. There is a special pin-prick opening in the top of the bottle. So if you run the bottle along the scalp your can moisten the entire head. Next massage your scalp with your fingers for a minute or two. Press your fingers against your scalp and move and loosen it. Follow the massage with a vigorous brushing with upward and outward motions.

Another important point in the care of dyed hair is the selection of a shampoo. Never use a prepared shampoo or a soap that contains alkali. Pick a bland soap such as castile, or one of the specially prepared olive oil treatment shampoos of the non-lathering type. If you prefer soap, a warm olive oil treatment before the shampoo will bring life into dyed hair.

Take sensible precautions before having your hair dyed and give it proper care afterward. Then you'll never have heartaches over touched-up tresses.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

There was genuine mournfulness in Dicky's voice as he said that his time was not his own just now, and that he was likely to be "called away" at any minute.

The first phrase aroused my resentful conjecture, but the second had only one reaction within my soul, and that was lively terror. Could it be possible that he meant—and he feared—? But he was speaking again, and I focused my attention upon his words.

"If Hank could get ready to go back with me tonight—" he began, and I cried out in protest.

"You're not going to leave the children so soon! I can't let you do that, even for Hank."

"I'm not doing it for Hank," he said, speaking slowly, patiently, as if he were explaining matters to a child. "My going back tonight has nothing to do with the boy. I had planned to go back anyway, just as soon as the children were safely in bed."

I felt the touch of icy fingers along my spine as stark fear held me in its grip. I knew that only something of the gravest importance could take Dicky away from the children when he had not seen them for so long, and I knew also that if he had any legitimate reason for staying away, he would have told me of it at once.

Can't Tell Her.

There was something in his life he did not dare to tell me. I did not need the powers of a Sherlock Holmes to deduce that, any more than I needed them for the inevitable corollary that his secret was linked with the "jam" in which Edith Fairlax had said he was involved, with his desire to have me near at hand in the city, and with the terrifying series of incidents involving him and the drunken woman who had called him at the hotel, and who, I later discovered, was a sort of "super secretary" in his office.

But—and this was the most terrifying thought of all—there was absolutely nothing I could do to change the situation. I saw clearly that the only way I could aid him was to acquiesce in everything he said. He evidently had mapped out for himself what he thought was the only possible course. It would be brutal—as well as futile — to attempt to change it.

"Of course Hank could get ready to go back with you tonight," I said slowly. "But—I don't know what excuse we're going to give him for sending him to a specialist. He isn't at all ill, you know, and I don't want him to suspect anything."

Smoking Too Much.

"Of course not," Dicky replied promptly, "and he won't, by the time I get through with him. Remember that immortal of Jerome's who was convinced he had everything except housemaid's knee after studying his own symptoms?" I nodded as he went on.

"Well, Hank will think he also has 'housemaid's knee,' he said. "Tell me, has he been smoking many cigarets?"

"Too many altogether," I said. "I've sometimes been sorry we sent an affirmative answer to that query from Worcester asking if we wished to give smoking permission to Bill and Hank."

"I haven't," Dicky retorted. "They'd have smoked anyway, permission or no permission—you know that. Better let them be law-abiding. How about Bill?"

"To paraphrase the Smith college advice to freshmen," I said, smiling, "Bill smokes like a gentleman instead of a chimney."

"And I suppose Hank does the kitchen stove one better," Dicky countered. "Well! that's enough for me to go on. Just watch my work after dinner. I'll have Hank all ready to go and no questions asked. Can Katherine get hold of a specialist and make an appointment for tomorrow forenoon? That's the only time I'll be sure of for the next few days."

"Katherine can do anything," I returned, and meant it, for I had seen the almost miracles which the little nurse has so frequently performed in the past.

"I agree with you," Dicky said, putting his arm around my waist. "And now, let's go and see Faith."

Attitude May Explain Troubles

By EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: A half dozen years ago I moved into this metropolitan suburb expecting to find people well versed in formal conventons. I waited for some weeks to have my neighbors and local friends of my home-town friends call on me. But few of them did. After awhile however they invited me to substitute in their bridge clubs and asked me to buy tickets to their women's club parties and charity benefits and that sort of thing. I have waited for them to make the first moves. Now, through indirect channels, I have learned that some of these people have considered me very "upstage" and not friendly because I have never made any move to show them any hospitality. By all that is right will you tell me, and them too through your column, whether I have been in the wrong?"

Answer: I don't see what else you could have done further than to wait for their overtures. I have always said to meet people half way; and by that I mean to have a friendly manner and to be willing to accept whatever they offer you. In other words, not to stand out for the formality of their paying you visits and refuse to accept invitations to their houses. But when they have not asked you to anything at their houses or made you a member of their bridge club, they have given you very small opportunity to show any hospitality to them. You certainly could not take it upon yourself to invite all the older residents to your house first. You could invite those who have asked you to substitute at their houses to lunch with you and to play bridge; perhaps merely to come in to play bridge. Of course it may be that your manner has been less friendly than you imagine.

Dear Mrs. Post: When serving cocktails at home before a dinner party, should I serve appetizers? Some of our friends provide quite an assortment of them, but I think when dinner follows immediately there is little excuse for so much filling up on nick nacks beforehand. What is usually done in fashionable houses?

Answer: Rarely, if ever, is more than one or two varieties of simple canapes served. Some hostesses serve nothing except olives or celery chips. In fact, it might almost be made a rule that the smarter the house, the less complicated the hors d'oeuvres and the fewer their variety because, as you say, they are eaten immediately before dinner and few pople want more than a taste. If you are having a tea and cocktail party in the late afternoon, that is another matter, and almost any amount of bread and cake and hors d'oeuvres are suitable. It should be noted that the growing popularity and fashion of tea has meant the inclusion of more sweets than formerly. At yesterday's more typical strong-drink cocktail party, cake, of course, was never included.

Dear Mrs. Post: I should like to know what you consider the most important rule of etiquette, and of course the necessary explanation of why you think so.

Answer: Understanding of the feelings of others is to me the most important rule of etiquette. This is also the first requirement of permanent charm. The best definition of the object of etiquette is consideration of the rights and feelings of others, but it is impossible to show consideration for their feelings unless one can appreciate what those feelings are. Therefore, cultivation of this perception is necessarily the first essential.

My Neighbor Says:

Peony plants are now forming their next year shoots, as may be learned by examining the roots. The shoots contain flower buds which will develop next season, and the stronger the growth now, the better will be the bloom. It pays to fertilize the peony plants at this season, using bone meal or manure water.

CHANGES TAKE EFFECT IN VET COMPENSATION

Newly Enacted Legislation Expected to Benefit at Least 200 in County.

Important changes in veterans compensation regulations which will effect a number of persons in Mansfield and Richland county will be put into effect immediately, Gertrude B. English, executive secretary of the Richland County Red Cross, said today

The newly enacted legislation affects Spanish war veterans and the widows and dependents of World war veterans Mrs English said that while the actual number of persons in Richland county benefiting by the law was not available, it was estimated that the total would be more than 200

Law Extends Benefits.

The amended law makes compensation for death not due to service available to widows and children of World war veterans whose service-connected disability rating was only ten per cent Previously death benefits were paid in such cases only to veterans who were 30 per cent disabled

"Thus, a widow is entitled to compensation if her husband is killed or dies from natural causes not connected with his war service, as long as he had a service-connected disability rating of 10 per cent" Mrs English pointed out

The new law also increases the pensions of Spanish war veterans at the age of 65 instead of 75 as formerly If a Spanish war veteran has served at least 90 days or has served less than that but incurred a disability during that time, he will receive $60 a month when he is 65 years old The act also increases from $72 to $100 the monthly pension of veterans whose physical or mental condition requires the regular attendance of nurse or other assistant

The increased pensions are effective from the date on which application is filed, Mrs English explained, and veterans, widows and nurses must apply for it as it does not change automatically Veterans' widows must apply within one year after their husband's death for future awards

Benefits in no cases will go back farther than May 13 1938 the day on which the legislation was signed by the president

Because of the large number of cases to be reviewed and applications filed, appointments should be made by telephone for Red Cross assistance, Mrs. English said.

THEATER

NOT even the oldsters among theater goers will remember enough of Sara Bernhardt's play "Mlle Frou Frou" to identify it with Louise Rainer's new picture "The Toy Wife" Yet the fact remains that the little Rainer who achieved the academy award two years in succession, is now interpreting the role of the vain and frivolous daughter of Louisiana aristocracy which once provided the great Bernhardt with a popular vehicle The story has been "Americanized" by Zoe Akins, from the original French drama, the locale laid in America and the characters all Americans Melvyn Douglas has the same sort of role he played in "Gorgeous Hussy", that of a rising political star who marries the shallow Frou-Frou Robert Young turns from the idealism of his character in 'Three Comrades' to play the handsome scapegrace who entices Frou-Frou to run away from her husband The picture is about ready for release

"Hellzapoppin" at Madison.

The new Olsen and Johnson show is good for what ails you, whether it's dyspepsia or depression, for these two veteran comedy-makers of the vaudeville stage have stirred up a dish of entertainment that smoothly blends nonsense, music, a well-trained and personable chorus, and several unique talents The show which opened yesterday at the Madison and runs through tonight is 73 minutes of sheer tomfoolery with the Three Radio Rogues putting on a show all of their own The Rogues as impersonators begin where all others leave off, their take-off of Clark Gable in "Test Pilot," and of Edward G Robinson in "Last Gangster" was positively uncanny in realism, while their impersonations of Wallace Beery, Kenny Baker Jack Benny, Ben Bernie Kate Smith and other stars, sent last night's audience into rounds of applause Walter Nilsson, the "loose nut on wheels," is second to none as a novelty cyclist. Then there's a colored tap dancer, two guns who sing "Old Man River" in a different way, Reed, Dean and Reed, and Shirley Wayne and a dancing team — all definitely contributing to the fast entertainment A number of stooges work through the audience, and while you miss the "balloons, balloons" stunt of last year's show, there is "Oscar" to make up for it There are a couple dozen new gags spicy but not offensive, in the new show

Old Query Bobs Up.

The old question of whether a woman should conceal her past from her husband is the inspiration for the basic idea of "You And Me" which brings Sylvia Sidney and George Raft to the Ohio screen in a dramatic picture play To tell him the truth in this instance meant losing her one slim chance of future happiness, but not to tell him was taking a chance on losing her happiness after she had it within her grasp She took the chance and lost Miss Sidney who may always be depended upon for a fine dramatic performance has a role that provides her opportunity, that of the girl who has served a prison term and has been paroled George Raft who appeared with Miss Sidney several seasons ago in "Pick Up" is an exgangster trying to go straight The picture runs through Friday

"Submarine D-1 is essentially a man's picture with all of the important character men and the plot material pretty strong fare for the feminine contingent of the audience The major characters are Pat O Brien and Wayne Kid Gallahad' Morris as two rival sailors and George Brent as their commanding office. Much of the action takes place on a submarine and the exciting climax is staged at the bottom of the sea after a submarine is sunk It isn't a war picture but deals with experiments in submarine warfare Doris Weston is the only concession to romance The picture is being shown at the Majestic with Paul Munis greatest picture drama The Life of Emile Zola

Savo at Ritz.

Jimmy Savo whose antics have amused New York theater goers for many years brings his round mischievous face and funny eyes to the screen in Merry-Go-Round of 1938 for the first major production in which he is appointed Savo always a star in the Broadway revues in which he appears is in his new screen appearances His talents are teamed with those of Billy House and Bert Lahr also of the screen funny men making a total of four mad antics revolve around Joy Hodges who for sentimental purposes is that ward of the death of her mother Alice Brady and Louise Fazenda also appear in the players and John Boles and Wesley Ruggles The Road picture opposite Miss Hodges Mischa Auer and Bert Lahr Merry-Go-Round is at the Ritz

ASKS SENATE TO PROBE LORAIN ELECTION BOARD

Hurley's Resolution Hits at Democratic Leader Opposing His Renomination.

Senator William F. Hurley, of Lorian, who is being opposed for renomination by the regular Democratic organization in the 27th-29th senatorial district which includes Richland county, today had asked the state senate for the appointment of a three-member committee to investigate the office of deputy supervisor of elections in Lorain

The office is held by B N. Harris veteran Democratic executive committee chairman in Lorain county, who has actively opposed Hurley in his campaign for renomination

Hurley accused Harris, who also is a member of the county board of elections, of seeking to prevent his renomination and of "moral turpitude and malfeasance misfeasance and nonfeasance in office"

Hints at Irregularities.

Hurley's resolution asking for the investigation said there had been brought to the senate's attention "charges of certain alleged irregularities in office by the member of the board of elections of Lorain county who has been placed in charge of election matters in the city of Lorain"

Harris, who has been a member of the Lorain county Democratic executive committee for more than 40 years, was in Mansfield yesterday with Maurice C Brown, Lorain, whom he is backing for the senatorial nomination against Hurley. Harris and Brown conferred here with E. B Kallmerten, Richland county Democratic executive chairman, who also is supporting Brown for the nomination.

"So Quiet—YOU CAN HEAR THE CLOCK TICK!"

● "My IMPERIAL is so quiet at high speeds you can hear the clock tick. It rides as evenly and smoothly as cars that weigh and cost a lot more and it's so quiet you can sleep comfortably on long trips. I like the smooth, powerful engine . . . and its economy. It's a most attractive car, without being radical, and its extra roominess and comfort make it fine for traveling."
